

Senate Inquiry
On MacArthur's
Views Opposed

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), declaring "You can't plan a battle in a legislature," lined up today with opponents of a proposed congressional investigation of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's win-the-war views about Korea.

"I'm afraid an investigation of that nature might involve grave risks of some inadvertent disclosure of matters which should be the most closely guarded secrets," Watkins told a reporter.

Truman Skeptical

Several congressmen, however, endorsed proposals of Sen. Hunt (D-Wyo.) and Rep. Wickersham (D-Okla.) for congressional questioning of MacArthur.

Watkins earlier had suggested that President Truman explore any MacArthur Korean peace plan at once with President-elect Eisenhower and MacArthur. His proposal drew a tart rejection Thursday from the President.

Truman told a news conference (1) he doubted MacArthur really has thought up a new plan, despite the general's recent statements; (2) he believed Eisenhower's trip to the Korean War zone was the result of campaign demagoguery, and (3) he had no intention of inviting either man to a meeting such as Watkins proposed, although he would see either or both if they asked for an interview.

Solution Indicated

MacArthur in a speech Dec. 5 said: "I am confident there is a clear and definite solution to the Korean conflict. A present solution involves basic decisions which I recognize as improper for public discussions."

His words were viewed widely as meaning he has such a solution to offer, that it differs from his previous proposals and that he wanted a chance to present it to Eisenhower or Truman.

Student At UM
Missing 7 Days

DETROIT (AP)—State Police had joined today in the search for an 18-year-old University of Michigan freshman. He has been missing a week.

The youth, Barry K. Branch, left his dormitory in the U. of M. south quadrangle last Friday, saying he planned to visit his father in Flint. Relatives said he hadn't been heard from since and probably planned to hitchhike to Flint.

Branch is the son of Dr. Hira Branch of Flint and Mrs. T. W. Hoover of Detroit. He was a pre-law student at Michigan.

"Barry took only one suitcase, and not too many spare clothes," his mother said. "He probably planned to hitchhike to Flint. We know that he took several books with him."

The youth was described as five-foot-nine of slender build, weighing about 136 pounds. He has dark brown hair and hazel eyes.

Talk By Helen Keller
Twisted To Produce
Propaganda For Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Helen Keller, famous blind and deaf author-educator, has called on a Czechoslovakian newspaper to retract a story in which it said she endorsed the Communist-run Vienna "peace" conference.

The State Department said yesterday Miss Keller, a leader in efforts to aid the blind, had repudiated the story in a Voice of America broadcast to Czechoslovakia.

The Prague newspaper Rude Pravo reported Dec. 6 Miss Keller said, "I am with you in your wonderful movement with all my heart." Actually, Miss Keller a few days earlier had assailed the Vienna congress as "a mask for the furtherance of Stalinist propaganda."

Business To Be Good
As Defense Spending
Tapers, Weeks Claims

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sinclair Weeks, tapped as the next secretary of commerce, says he expects business to be good after defense spending tapers off.

The Boston industrialist-politician told reporters yesterday he also thinks private capital should replace government funds in foreign aid, the excess profits tax should be junked and caution should be used in cutting tariffs.

Weeks met newsmen in Secretary of Commerce Sawyer's office. It was his first Washington appearance since being designated for the Cabinet post by President-elect Eisenhower.

Mild Gen. Bradley
Gets Pulled Into
Truman Wrangle

By ELTON C. FAY

AP Military Affairs Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mild old Gen. Omar Bradley, who doesn't like arguments, was back in town today and faced with prospects of finding himself the middle man in an Eisenhower-Truman tiff.

Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and World War II colleague of Gen. Eisenhower in the battle of Europe, was picked by President-elect Eisenhower to go with him on the journey to Korea.

Called To Report

Eisenhower said that mission, from which he is now returning, was to seek a way for honorable conclusion of the war. But Truman says the trip was the result of campaign demagoguery by Eisenhower.

The JCS chairman flew back to Washington last night, in company with Cabinet officers and advisers Eisenhower has selected and who were in the mid-Pacific conferences earlier in the week.

It was expected he would make an official report at the White House today on the military situation he found in Korea, where Eisenhower and his party conferred with theater and field commanders.

But such an otherwise formal and routine report by an officer to his commander-in-chief had interesting possibilities.

What might the angry President have to say or ask about the President-elect he roundly denounced on two successive days?

And what would the benign Bradley do if the conversation took that turn?

Bradley, who usually is somewhat taciturn, was even less glib when he stepped down from

President Picks
New OPS Boss

By WARREN ROGERS JR.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman was expected to prop up his buffeted controls program today by naming new industry members to the Wage Stabilization board after picking a new price boss.

The President appointed Joseph H. Freehill yesterday as administrator of the Office of Price Stabilization. Freehill, a native New Yorker, had been acting in that capacity since Tighe Woods resigned Nov. 24.

Truman told his Thursday news conference he would end the WSB paralysis before the week was out. And Economic Stabilizer Roger L. Putnam said a few hours later he had sent a list of proposed appointees to the White House.

The WSB has been unable to get to its backlog of 12,000 cases since the seven industry members resigned a week ago. They quit in a protest against Truman's action in overruling the board to bring a soft coal miners' wage increase to $1.90 a day instead of the $1.50 a day approved by the board.

By law the three-cornered WSB can't meet unless all segments—industry, unions, the public—are represented.

Eisenhower CooperationChurches Pledge
Help In Solving
World Problems

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

DENVER (AP)—Representatives of 147,000 American churches headed home today after issuing an unprecedented document aimed at sketching a Christian approach to the problems of our times.

The "letter to the Christian People of America," adopted by the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the USA., calls on churches to "sensitize the conscience of the nation."

Support For UN

It urges unflinching support of the United Nations, patience in solving world disputes, a halt to character assassination, a stronger religious context in education.

It asks the religious faithful to seek public office, even at personal sacrifice, condemns racial discrimination and appeals for a "pioneer spirit" in fortifying Christianity.

"The Christian church," the message said, "stands today in an alien world which is missionary in the absolute sense."

Action Sets Precedent

Dr. John Mackay, president of Princeton Theological Seminary and head of a committee that drafted the original message, said Christian churches as a group had never before joined in a pronouncement of such scope.

After several revisions, it was adopted unanimously at the final session yesterday of the General Assembly of the council, which includes 30 denominations with about 35 million members.

The Assembly also elected a new president, Methodist Bishop William C. Martin of Dallas, Tex., to succeed Episcopal Bishop Henry Knox Sherrill of Greenwich, Conn.

the plane last night.

He said to a reporter that it had been a long trip. He expanded this in talking to an aide, by saying the conferees were plenty busy in Hawaii where Eisenhower met Cabinet designees and advisers who had flown out to meet him.

Maj. Gen. Wilton Persons, retired Army officer who will be a White House adviser to Eisenhower, described it as an informative trip which "provided a lot of opportunity to talk about problems with the men who have to handle them."

And someone volunteered the information that there were good whist players among the party who flew the long trip back from the distant Pacific.

Dinner Tonight May Give Clue On Next
GOP Senate Leader

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP)—A casual meeting tonight at a banquet may provide a clue to the identity of the Republican majority leader in the new Senate opening Jan. 3.

Senators Bridges (R-NH) and Taft (R-Ohio), two of the men discussed most prominently for the leadership post, are to be guests at the Gridiron Club Dinner at a downtown hotel.

Also expected to attend the Gridiron Dinner are two of President-elect Eisenhower's Cabinet choices—Herbert Brownell, attorney general, and George Humphrey, secretary of the Treasury, who returned here last night from their Pacific conference with the general.

Chat Anticipated

Bridges told a news conference yesterday he expected to talk with Taft at the dinner about Senate organization problems.

The Ohio senator, long his party's most influential spokesman on Capitol Hill, might indicate in that chat how he feels now about the leadership situation.

There was no indication that Brownell or Humphrey might sit in on the Bridges-Taft conversation, although Brownell has played a prominent role in helping shape the new administration. GOP senators now in Washington have turned increasingly toward Bridges for the leadership job in the last week.

Hope To Avoid Split

The New Hampshire senator himself confirmed at the news conference that he had been under growing pressure to take the job

Brother Proves
To Be Husband

WAUSAU, Wis. (AP)—Farmer Walter Brandt was married six years, he testified Friday before he learned that the man living with him and his wife was his wife's undivorced husband, not her "brother."

Brandt, 36, told County Judge Frank G. Loeffler that his wife, Minnie, had identified Joseph Rudbeck as her brother before they were married in 1946. Brandt said Minnie and Rudbeck at that time were living on a farm near Vesper.

But when Brandt married Minnie and moved to his farm in Town of Eau Claire, he said, Rudbeck moved in with them. Last July Brandt said Minnie's sister told him Rudbeck was Minnie's husband, not her brother.

Joe and Minnie admitted deception but claimed they had been divorced, Brandt stated. But, he said, he "blew up" and started annulment proceedings.

Judge Loeffler told Rudbeck his story of how he got a divorce was implausible and that he and Minnie still were married. Brandt was granted his annulment.

Governor Lines
Up Program For Special Session

LANSING (AP)—Gov. Williams today sent Michigan lawmakers a list of seven subjects which he said should be considered at the Dec. 18 special legislative session if a majority of them approve.

The session was called to give public school districts authority to borrow against future state aid grants.

Williams said he would not open the session to other subjects "unless there is general agreement" on them and a two-thirds vote can determine their views.

The subjects included:
1. A bill to place additional members on township boards, replacing the Justices of the Peace who were barred by a State Supreme Court decision.

2. A request by Sen. James M. Teahen Jr. (R-Owosso) to repeal a drainage district law.

3. Revision of the 1952 law shifting Probate Judges from the fee system to straight salaries. State Attorneys believe the law is unconstitutional because it allows the Genesee County Judge a higher salary than others in the same population class.

4. An appropriation of $1,438,000 to permit continuation of the construction of the Wayne University medical science building.

5. An appropriation to reimburse counties for the capture and trial of escaped convicts, a fund which now is exhausted.

6. A change in appropriation practices of the state employees retirement fund and the Civil Service Commission required by an Attorney General's opinion.

7. Appropriations totalling nearly $275,000 to cover deficiencies in nine accounts at the end of the last fiscal year, June 30.

Output Of American Military Planes To Hit Peak Next Spring

WASHINGTON (AP)—America's military plane output is slated to hit a post-Korean peak next spring with plenty of production capacity still remaining in case of emergency.

Air Force Undersecretary Roswell Gilpatrick said yesterday the production of Air Force craft reached 666 in November and will hit a top of between 750 and 800 a month next spring. Output then is to taper off to about 300 a month by June, 1956, he said.

But the all-out capacity of the aircraft industry, Gilpatrick said, is "several times" the 800-a-month peak scheduled under the rearmament program.

Recount Adds 636
Votes To Williams
Margin Over Alger

(By The Associated Press)

Secretary of State Fred M. Alger Jr. made slight gains as the gubernatorial recount continued today, but Gov. Williams still held a 9,254 vote lead in his bid for a third term.

Alger, Republican candidate for governor, picked up 89 votes in Kalamazoo County and 37 votes in Wayne, as the State Board of Canvassers tried desperately to keep recount machinery moving.

Democrats Ask Delay

Williams lead was based on a recount of 977 precincts of the 3,463 which may be rechecked in the state.

Since the recount started Monday Williams had gained a total of 636 votes over Alger.

Looking hopefully at these figures, the Democrats told the Republican-dominated State Board of Canvassers they'd be very pleased if recounting of 27 counties scheduled to start Monday and Tuesday be delayed until Wednesday.

Alfred B. Fitt, chief counsel for the Democratic recount committee, sent a telegram to D. Hale Brake, Canvassing board chairman, saying "We are informed there is a possibility Mr. Alger may reach a decision early next week, whether to concede the re-election of Governor Williams."

Save Taxpayers Money

The Democrats, who had requested the recount in these 27 counties after Alger started the recount business by asking another look at ballots in a total of 1,571 precincts located elsewhere in the state, said this delay would be saving the taxpayers money.

Brake turned down the idea quickly.

"We are too close to Monday now to make any change like that," he said. He added he had heard nothing of any Alger plan to call the whole thing off Monday or Tuesday.

Tough South Koreans
Drive Reds From Hill

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

SEOUL (AP)—Tough little South Korean troops today stormed to the top of Little Nori Hill lost more than two days ago, drove off Red remnants, then stuck there stubbornly under steady pounding from Communist guns and infantry assaults.

Other Republic of Korea soldiers attacked Reds on Big Nori, some 300 yards to the north.

Changes Hands 6 Times

Both Western Front hills, gateposts on the traditional northern invasion route to this old capital, were grabbed by Communists in swift attacks early Thursday. They are on the Imjin River about 40 miles north of Seoul.

The drive up steep, frozen Little Nori was the 10th countermarch by the ROKs. It turned out to be the sixth time the peak has changed hands since the Chinese picked it as the scene for their latest small-scale offensive.

The weary ROKs reached the crest of Little Nori about 10 a. m. today.

Backed By Artillery

They went up behind a savage Allied air and artillery pounding of the peak. Their first act was to kick off the remnants of Reds who had rolled them back down the hill nine times previously.

A U. S. military advisers to the ROKs called them "the toughest little soldiers in the world."

Reds renewed their assaults within a few hours after the wily South Koreans reached Little Nori's rest. Under heavy fire, ROK engineers attempted to set up portable log bunkers and string barbed wire to make the peak defensible.

The ROKs had the support of Allied artillery and U. S. Patton tanks on the slope of Little Nori, the closest tanks had come to the front in the battle.

Oakland Educator, 37,
Seeks State Job To Succeed Dr. Thurston

PONTIAC (AP)—Oakland's County's 37-year-old superintendent of schools, William J. Emerson, is off and running today for the Republican nomination for State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Dr. Lee M. Thurston, a Republican, is retiring as state superintendent at the end of his term in June to become dean of education at Michigan State College.

Emerson announced his candidacy for the GOP nod here yesterday. The party will pick its nominee at a spring convention.

Emerson is a graduate of Central Michigan College and is an Air Force veteran of World War II. He has been Oakland superintendent four years and is state legislative chairman of the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers.

President-Elect
Resents Charge
Of Demagoguery

By DON WHITEHEAD

HONOLULU (AP)—A reliable source today said President Truman's "demagoguery" statement cut President-elect Eisenhower deeply and just about killed any chance of friendly relations between the two in the future.

This reaction as disclosed a short time before Eisenhower was to leave Hawaii bound for New York City, which he left secretly just two weeks ago for Korea. He is due to arrive at the Marine air terminal at LaGuardia Field at 1 p. m., EST, tomorrow.

Relations Strained

The once friendly relationship between Eisenhower and Truman, strained by accusations made during the heat of the presidential campaign—but the new incident points to a coldly formal relationship in the future.

"This looks like the finish of any informal across-the-desk meetings between the two," this source said. "If there is another meeting it probably will be a cold affair."

Truman told a news conference Thursday that the Eisenhower trip to Korea was a "piece of political demagoguery." It is known here that Eisenhower thinks this was a low blow which he did not deserve from the President.

Poor Psychology

Also, Eisenhower is represented as thinking that the Truman statement was poor psychology for the troops in Korea who had received a lift in spirits from his visit to combat units.

The President-elect considers the Korean trip—and the conferences that followed with his top advisers—a worthwhile venture that already has paid good dividends in the formation of future policy.

The general held his final major conference with his advisers Thursday evening before most of

Officials Tangle
On Liquor Fund

LANSING (AP)—Auditor General John B. Martin Jr., a Republican, and State Controller Robert F. Steadman, a Democrat, broke the post-election quiet today with a new controversy.

Martin demanded that Steadman agree to cutting the state liquor purchase revolving fund from $10,000,000 to $1,000,000 to provide more cash for the state's ailing treasury.

Steadman said such a move would amount to running the state at the expense of the liquor industry. He argued the full fund was needed to assure vendors that they would be paid for liquor they sold the state.

Martin replied that the commission's current revenue is enough to cover purchases.

He said "the question is whether this money is to be available for school purposes or whether it is to be immobilized in order to give double security for the payment of liquor bills."

Steadman said it wasn't his problem, anyway. He said there is nothing he could do about it if Martin and the State Treasurer want to spend the liquor fund for other purposes.

Delta Recount Gives 39-Vote Gain To Alger

Delta county finished its recount of governorship ballots this morning, giving Republican Fred M. Alger Jr., a gain of 39 votes over Governor Williams.

The ballots of the last township, Bay de Noc, were counted late this morning. Tabulation here took 3½ days. In the last gubernatorial recount, in 1950, the second tallying lasted 9 days.

The job was completed here in shorter time because three tables were used for the counting, according to Harlan Yelland, county recount supervisor, whereas in the 1950 recount, only one table was originally set up, with another added later in the tallying.

Alger's netting of 39 votes moved him that many ballots closer to Williams in the county tabulation. The original canvass gave him a total of 6,246 votes and Williams, 8,185.

Bay de Noc Last

Yelland reported this morning that the counting went rapidly after the finding of many disqualified votes on the first day. Escanaba precincts No. 3 and 6 had approximately 93 ballots voided because of failure of the election boards to make a clean severance of the identification number from the ballot.

One ballot box, that of Bay de Noc township, had to be opened forcibly this morning. The key to the lock on the box was not turned in to the election supervisor and the lock was sawed open.

Peder Pedersen of Stonington, supervisor of Bay de Noc township and election board inspector for the Nov. election in his township, today issued a statement in ballots voided by the recount board now in session because initiated corners on the ballots were not completely torn off.

Peder Pedersen's statement leaving part of the numbered digit on the ballot could be used as identification marks, said the recount board.

"Do you believe this was intentionally done for this purpose?" Supervisor Pedersen asked.

"Being chairman of the Bay de Noc election board, I want to give my views on the subject. I don't believe in this instance the blame should be placed on the inspector's carelessness in tearing these corners off, but rather on the printer's carelessness or neglect in having these corners perforated so they could not be torn off."

"The experience of this board was that ballot corners were so poorly perforated that they could not be torn and that the inspector had to use his pocketknife to cut them off."

"Do you believe under the circumstances that the election board or inspector in charge of the ballot box should be charged with carelessness and that the voter's vote should be cast out?"

"I would like to have this matter investigated thoroughly and the blame be placed on the right party—namely the printer or printers who printed these ballots," Pedersen said.

Deputy Attorney General Yelland this morning stated that both the printer and the election boards were at fault for the inadequate tearing of the ballots which were voided.

"Most of the blame must be placed on the election board, however, because the majority of polling station officials overcame the handicap of inadequate perforation and made a special attempt to sever the identification corner completely," he said.

Following are the recount totals for the townships and the resulting lost or gained votes for the candidates:

Township	Recount Totals	Lost Votes	Williams
Alger
Masonville 1	227	179	4
Masonville 2	22	21	1

In Ford River township both candidates gained votes in the recount because of a compilation error in the first canvass.

Ford River 238 158 6 2
The 17-vote difference shown above, added to the 22 votes Alger gained in Gladstone and Escanaba precincts yesterday, gives him a total of 39 gained votes in the recount.

Escanaba Woman Author Of Book For Teen-Agers

Mrs. Helen H. Cloutier, 809 Third Ave. S., has drawn on her experience as operator of a radio "ham" station for background in writing a career novel for teen-agers, "Sim Barton, Girl Radio Operator," published by Pageant Press, New York City.

Born in Manistique, Mrs. Cloutier is the only woman in the world who has owned and operated her own radio "ham" station for 23 years. She holds a class "A" radio operator license.

The novel combines romance, adventure, and the experiences of the girl radio operator, Sim, on a Great Lakes ship.

Girl On A Ship
Sim's father had been the captain of a Lake ship until his death, and his daughter grew up with the love of ships and the inland seas in her blood. Radio gave her an opportunity to become a member of a ship's crew.

The girl's efforts to achieve success in her job, despite the unwillingness of the men in the crew to accept her, is entertainingly told. There is a thread of romance with Bill, who has learned to distrust women.

Mrs. Cloutier writes from a background she knows well. From her own radio station she has talked to other operators all over the world and has cards from operators in at least 60 foreign countries. Her enthusiasm for communication radio is evident in her car—equipped with a mobile radio unit.

Plan Autograph Party

She attended RCA Radio Institute, the Sylvania Radio School, and Northwestern University, and is known locally as a writer, photographer and dancing teacher. She owns and operates her own beauty salon. At the present time she is teaching an adult education class in writing in Escanaba.

An autograph party at Mead's drug store is planned for next week, when Mrs. Cloutier will autograph books for her friends.

Three Injured On Wells Road

Three Negaunee men were injured last night when a car in which they were riding hit the ditch near the old Wells Bridge on County Road 517 and plunged into a gravel barricade.

Michigan State Police, who were called at 12:15 a. m., said the driver apparently failed to see the dead-end road sign near the bridge and plunged into the barricade.

The men, all of whom are about 24 or 25, were taken to St. Francis Hospital by ambulance. They were unconscious.

Police identified the injured men as Richard Carlson, 221 E. Clark street, Donald J. Leaf, 911 Oak street, and Reinhart Hansen, all of Negaunee.

The men were not seriously injured. Hansen has a fractured jaw and the other two sustained bruises.

Old Gas Plant, Downtown Landmark, Being Removed

Escanaba's old city gas plant, out-dated by propane, is being razed and with it goes the 60-foot storage-pressure structure that has served as a downtown landmark for many years.

John Roman of 606 South 15th St., Escanaba steeplejack, is dismantling the 100,000-cubic-foot "holder" with its supporting framework of structural steel 60 feet high. His bid price to the city was $375.

The plant being dismantled by Roman for the city was the second—not the first—municipal gas utility in Escanaba.

First Was Naphtha
E. J. "Jack" Bawden of 330 South Eighth St., who retired from city employment two years ago after serving the city for 41 years, recalls Escanaba's first gas plant, located near the site of the present plant that is being dismantled.

The first plant produced naphtha gas and had a capacity of 10,000 cubic feet. The gas was made by introducing naphtha (similar to gasoline) into a red-hot retort—which was heated by wood!

The late John Roemer, father of Henry Roemer of Escanaba, was superintendent of the old gas utility and A. J. Manley, retired city treasurer, was bookkeeper for the gas and electric utilities.

Bawden began work for the city in 1911, the year the old naphtha gas plant went out and the "new" water-gas plant—now being razed—was built.

Plant Was Enlarged
City records show the Escanaba City Council made preliminary plans for the water-gas plant in December, 1910; the people approved (1,244 to 577) a bond issue in 1911 to finance the project; and the plant was completed late that year at a cost of $25,000.

The original plant had 50,000 cubic feet capacity and in 1916 it was enlarged by the addition of the 100,000 cubic feet pressure-storage tanks.

For more than 40 years the water-gas plant served the community well and became a casualty only because of the rising costs of gas production. Water-gas is manufactured by burning coal and oil. The cost of these materials and of labor mounted rapidly in the past few years.

Overseas Mail Gets Special Handling At Escanaba Postoffice

Elmer Olson, chairman of the Escanaba American Legion Christmas basket committee, announced today that arrangements have been made with Cordie Kincaid, superintendent of mails at the overseas mail that comes into the Escanaba postoffice on Christmas Day.

"We want every serviceman's family to get their special delivery on Christmas Day, and all arrangements to assure this delivery have been completed," Olson said.

"Our Christmas basket committees are functioning 100 per cent, and our only problem is the fund deficit which confronts us. About 50 more contributions would put us over the top, and we are hopeful," the chairman stated.

All items for the baskets have been ordered and the packing committee under the guidance of Dr. C. J. Cororan, will meet at the Legion clubrooms on Tuesday, December 23, at 6:00 p. m. to pack the baskets.

All Legionnaires who can spare the time are asked to assist, not only in the packing, but also in the delivery of baskets on Wednesday, December 24. The delivery will start at 8 a. m. and should be completed by noon, the committee believes.

Reynold Redstrom, 1316 Stephen avenue, was admitted Friday for medical treatment in St. Francis hospital.

cided to turn to propane for its gas supply.

The people voted approval of a $125,000 bond issue to construct a propane gas plant, which was completed earlier this year and went into operation a few months ago. Because propane is cheaper there is protection against increased rates—and the possibility of reduced rates in the future, said City Manager A. V. Aronson.

From its small beginning with only a few customers more than 40 years ago the gas utility now serves a total of 2,338 customers. Of this total, 179 are commercial and 2,159 are residential.

The structural steel removed in dismantling the old gas plant "holder" will be salvaged by the city. The gas manufacturing plant, adjacent to the city steam plant, is being used now for storage.

The next adult educators conference will be held at NMCE in Marquette.

Adult education in socio-civic problems, vocational and cultural courses, education for the ageing and home and family living courses were considered at the final session.

Military Wastage Of Manpower Is One Of Nation's Top Problems

Do Our Armed Forces Waste Manpower?

This is the title of an article in the current issue of Cosmopolitan magazine, dealing with a subject that is of much concern to the American people.

The article by Donald Robinson charges that the Armed Services are guilty of shocking waste and extravagance in the use of manpower, costing the taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars needlessly. Even worse, the manpower waste creates bad morale in the armed forces.

Here are some typical examples of wasted manpower quoted in the magazine articles:

At the El Toro, California Marine Base, investigators found the base motor pool has 37 more men assigned to it than it had work for. The maintenance and photographic sections had 128 more men than they could use.

At March Air Force Base, California, 10 non-commissioned officers, supervised by a combat-trained sergeant, were assigned to picking leaves off the officers' club lawn by hand.

At the Navy Base in Norfolk, Va., a dozen sailors were assigned to the task of wet-nursing a golf course.

At the Army War College in Carlisle, Pa., more than 750 officers and enlisted men were assigned to the job of servicing a school with only 150 students.

A Navy tanker operating in the Pacific is authorized to have a crew of 12 officers and 270 enlisted men. A privately owned commercial tanker, doing everything that the Navy vessel does except refuel other ships at sea is manned by a total crew of only 43 men.

The author quotes a top Pentagon official with this statement:

"The Department of Defense will be perfectly satisfied if it can hold wastage of manpower down to ten percent."

With a total of 3,700,000 men in the armed forces, this means that the goal—still unachieved—is to keep manpower wastage down to 370,000 men!

It's not a very happy outlook. Today more than 1,520,000 men are in the Army, slightly over half assigned to combat or tactical units. The rest are in housekeeping details.

This is a serious problem and a costly one for the American people.

THROUGH A FRIENDLY EYE (Christian Science Monitor)

"In these four and a half years," said Sir Oliver Franks, speaking of his stay as British Ambassador in the United States, "I have visited all 48 states of the Union." Would that many have the time and means for such a cross-section of the country as this.

Many a native American traveler, for that matter, may envy the envoy's record. But the best of it is not merely the number of states Sir Oliver saw but the eye with which he saw them.

He stressed most the friendliness, strength, and sincerity of the people. Said he:

I shall always remember the America of the simple white meeting house and the skyscraper of the city; the light of the lonely ranch house glimpsed from the swift moving streamliner; the tall timbers; and the majestic rivers. I shall remember the rich cornfields; the drifting cattle on the limitless range; the arched backs of the cotton pickers; the luminous roar of the blast furnace; and the tang of the sunburnt air of the Southwest. And through them all I shall remember the connecting link of people—warm-hearted friendly people who in their lives exemplify the word "neighborly." Americans can be pleased, heartened, and a little humbled at that picture of themselves.

CAREFUL HIRING BETTER THAN FIRING (Milwaukee Sentinel)

Now the International Monetary Fund must find a new secretary. Frank Coe has lost the $15,500 job. He was dismissed after he had declined to answer some questions by senate investigators. The questions were the kind familiar to all, by now. Senators wanted Coe to say whether he had ever been a Communist or a wartime spy. He declined to answer.

Maybe the IMF secretaryship is a sinecure, a snug harbor for craft tossed for years on the turbulent seas of federal officialdom. More likely it is a highly important post, demanding experience and judgment. Now it must be filled, at rather short notice.

It would have been better for the Monetary Fund, for the United States and for the free world if the person chosen for the post had been someone willing to answer questions of this kind. It would seem that with a little more vigilance a secretary of this type could have been found.

Moreover, a reasonable concern for the people paying the bills might have led the International Monetary Fund to conduct an inquiry of its own. The dismissal of Coe, after his refusal to answer those questions, and after Senator O'Connor had demanded it, on the front pages of the nation, was practically inevitable.

The big questions now are why Coe was chosen in the first place, what kind of investigation he underwent, and why his dismissal did not take place until after the investigation drama and the bluntly worded anger of Senator O'Connor.

ment" and this suggests a fear of God's judgment upon sin.

Were there early Christians who brought over into their new faith and fellowship, a deep sense of guilt concerning their past lives or concerning specific sins they had committed?

We know from much observation and from many spiritual biographies, how deep the sense of guilt can be and with what difficulty many have overcome it. It is not easy for some who feel deeply to become convinced of, and to appropriate, the full pardoning grace of God.

It was to all who so felt and to all who so feel, that John expresses his profound assurance. To love God perfectly is to feel perfectly the reality and power of His love. Torment can no longer harass the soul to whom that love has become real.

Yet I believe that there is a genuine calm and serenity for those to whom God is a profound reality, whose faith is the Christian version of the profound faith of the man who wrote the forty-sixth Psalm.

"God is our refuge and strength, therefore will we not fear though the earth be removed." That Psalmist lived in a small nation beset by surrounding warring empires. It was a scene of constant danger, but he had the courage of faith. Faith and love can cast out fear.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—The Hungarian Communist minister to Washington, Dr. Emil Weil, attended a meeting at the Barbizon Plaza Hotel in New York on Nov. 9 which should constitute ample evidence that he is meddling in American politics. Furthermore he was obviously encouraging American Communists and Hungarian-Americans to oppose the United States.

It is contrary to diplomatic rules for a foreign envoy to meddle in the politics of any country, and a diplomat who does so is subject to recall. One such historic precedent was the case of Sir Lionel Sackville-West of the British Embassy who was immediately sent back to London when he wrote a private letter advising an alleged British citizen in the United States to vote for Grover Cleveland in the Harrison-Cleveland election of 1888.

Dr. Weil, a practicing physician who administered the drug during the trial of Cardinal Mindszenty in Budapest, has been stationed in Washington for more than two years. However, the State Department so far has found no excuse under the rules of diplomacy for requesting his recall.

On Nov. 9, however, the minister got official permission to go from Washington to New York, where he turned up at the Barbizon Plaza Hotel theatre for a celebration in honor of Hungary's national hero, Kossuth.

Main speaker was Carl Marzani, the young Italian-American who worked in the OSS and State Department during the war and was convicted afterward of failing to reveal he was a Communist.

HARANGUE AT UNCLE SAM
Marzani's speech consisted of an attack on Eisenhower, Truman, Stevenson and the American policy of building up Europe's military defenses.

"Eisenhower is like all the rest of the capitalistic imperialistic warmongers," Marzani told his enthusiastic audience, with Minister Weil sitting in a forward row, "like the boys in the Pentagon, like General Omar Bradley who says that war has to be carried to Moscow in order to stop the shooting."

"Well, let me tell you friends, Bradley will be in Moscow if he starts an all-out war. But he will be there as a prisoner—like Von Paulus."

"There is no difference between Eisenhower and Stevenson," Marzani continued. "They are all representatives of the imperialistic warmongers. There are only two countries in the world which are really seeking peace: Soviet Russia and China."

"Eisenhower organized the NATO army. My friends, the NATO countries do not want to fight against Soviet Russia. This army is an imaginary army. France had 55 per cent Communist votes, Italy 35 per cent. We have to presume that this prevails among the soldiers of the respective countries too."

"How does Eisenhower think this army will fight?" declared the former State Department official convicted of hiding his Communism. "It will fight against, not for the United States."

BIG OVATION
"Don't forget, my friends, that 800,000,000 people cannot be disregarded. They have to be reckoned with. These people are socialistic and are not easily stopped..."

"You who are assembled here to commemorate Kossuth have the power to change everything here in this country," said Marzani, working up to his climax. "Go out and work, work, work. You have to collect signatures for petitions. Write to the White House. Flood the mwwth letters, telegrams. Demand that the shooting be stopped in Korea..."

"The FBI creates concentration camps. But you, you have the power to decide who should be in those concentration camps."

At the end of his speech, which received a tremendous ovation, Marzani announced that a political action committee would be formed for propaganda.

"Go out from here and propagandize your neighbors," Marzani urged. "Work unceasingly for the peace, for the defeat of the capitalistic, imperialistic vicious American government."

In the back of the theatre, he said, were contribution boxes. "Deposit your contributions as you go out. If you want to make a larger contribution send a check to Anteriki Magyar Szo, (a pro-Communist paper). Every man, woman and child is expected to take part in this great project. Don't rest. Go out and spread the word."

The audience roared.

DR. WEIL BOWS
Not only did Dr. Weil sit all through this without leaving—as any other diplomat would have done—but at the end, the theatre spotlight focused on him and other members of the legation staff. Whereupon, he got up, bowed several times. Again the audience roared.

As the meeting broke up, Dr. Weil, wife and legation staff moved toward the exit. There he put a contribution in the box—to be used to undermine the American government and deliver the American people out to their slavery.

Tom Cole, Capital Doorman, Can Name Washington's 'Who's Who'

By PATTI SIMMONS

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Republicans who want to bone up on who's who in Washington had better buttonhole Thomas Roosevelt Cole. This man's a one-man mine detector in a town of protocol pitfalls.

As the capital's No. 1 "Caller" at very important functions, Cole helps cut down the aspirin consumption of the city's society reporters, party-giving diplomats and brass hats.

The 50-year-old Negro, with a hard-to-forget smile, probably knows more important people by name than any single person in Washington.

In the capital "social jungle"—where often you can't see the guests for the Cadillac—Cole merely glances at a limousine license and can tell what Supreme Court Justice, cabinet officer or ambassador will step out.

At almost every diplomatic reception, debut or important Washington social event, Cole is on hand to open the door as you alight from your car. He then assigns one of the men who works for him to park it.

After your fill of hors d'oeuvres and elbows around the buffet table, it is Cole who takes his megaphone to call your car or taxi back to the door.

One night at a gala affair tossed by Mrs. Morris Cafritz, Perle Mesta's local party-throwing rival, comedian Bob Hope was all for borrowing Cole's megaphone to test his vocal talents as a caller.

"What I wouldn't give for that voice," he told Cole. "What I wouldn't give for THAT voice," retorted Cole. But what he didn't tell Hope is his one trade secret—the fact that he never has to ask a guest for his name.

When some out-of-town fireman that Cole hasn't seen before shows up, he simply hands him a number for his car. Otherwise it's a snap for him to remember what secretary or senator goes with which white-walled tires.

When an embassy is besieged by a couple of thousand guests, Cole must call cars from several blocks away. So he saves his lungs and rigs up a public address system.

He can laugh now, but it wasn't so spine tickling the night former President Aleman of Mexico tossed a tremendous shindig in viting everybody from President Truman on down. A storm drowned out the address system and it was 4 o'clock the next morning when Cole unscrambled the last of the lost chauffeurs.

Plenty of top hats hitch-hiked home, Cole recalls.

President Truman sometimes leaves his overcoat in the car when alighting at a party stop. Once Cole helped the Chief Executive back into the coat, and he didn't get so much as a worried look from the Secret Service men. At public gatherings, it's unusual, if not unprecedented for anyone but the wary Secret Service to play valse to the boss.

Cole says he got no such treatment from Andre Vishinsky's boys when the Red foreign minister pulled up at a Soviet caviar and vodka blow-out.

"The four men who leaped out of the car practically took over my job," Cole relates.

When Gale Plaza returned to town as President of Ecuador he shook hands with Cole and posed for a picture with him to be sent back to South America. The two got to know each other when Senator Plaza was just another Washington ambassador.

Hosts have been known to corner Cole as soon as the last guest leaves and ask, "Who was here?" Social Register party-givers and people in the know, sometimes, book Cole a year in advance.

One diplomat's wife stationed him in the drawing room to announce the guests as they entered. "You know more people than I do," she confided.

Good Evening...

By CLINT DUNATHAN

THE GET-TOGETHER—Joe Heirman, Delta agricultural agent, described it as "unique" in Michigan—but we found the annual "venison feed" sponsored by the potato farmers another enjoyable affair.

Perhaps we do not consider it unusual or unique because we are accustomed to it after these several years of attendance. The other night at Cornell town hall we tried to find out exactly how many years—but Joe Heirman couldn't remember just when the first venison supper was served.

August Lundgard, respected but unofficial "mayor of Cornell," couldn't recall, either. He guessed the first one was about 1944 or 1945.

In any event, the supper is an outgrowth of the Escanaba Potato Boosters Association contest, at which the potato farmers express their appreciation to the city men for their cooperation. The opportunity is one for good fellowship and becoming better acquainted with each other's problems.

MEET YOUR NEIGHBOR—The get-together starts early in the evening in the hall. We met a lot of county men—and some city men—we have not seen for a long time.

The city men were all business and professional people who are members of the Potato Boosters Association; the county men are all farmers, with the accent on potato growing.

Al Garett of Escanaba and Adolph Lippens of St. Nicholas regaled me with stories about Geart's "hotel" at Chandler, and Lippens' exploits as an alligator hunter in Florida.

It appears there is considerable rivalry between Chandler and Cornell, but Mayor Lundgard isn't worried. As for Lippens, his experiences with alligators in Florida are rivaled only by his prowess as a bear hunter in Michigan.

LAUGHING TOGETHER—The dimming and brightening of the overhead lights was the signal for supper and the men trooped downstairs to the dining hall in the basement.

Here the venison supper, prepared by the women of the Cornell PTA, was spread on long tables. City and county men took alternate places at the table. On my right was Pat DeBacker of Rock and on my left sat Adolph Lippens.

Agust Lundgard performed ably as toastmaster and kept the informal program rolling. No toastmaster is successful without his jokes, and he told one that brought a roar of laughter. It went this way:

Down at the county seat, Augie said he had heard, the people thought "these Eisenhower times" were not too bad. In fact one man had told him he liked Eisenhower times very well. The reason?

"This fellow told me that since the election the cost of living has gone down 25 cents a pint!"

FOUNDING A BUSINESS—At the close of the dinner program the farmers honored one of their neighbors—Jules Van Damme of St. Nicholas, who is retiring from the potato growing business.

Grey Knaus of Cornell, who presented Jules with a wallet, pointed out that Jules was sort of a pioneer or founder of agriculture enterprise in the St. Nicholas section.

"The first cow in the area belonged to Jules," said Grey. "He led that cow down the track of the old Beaver Branch to his farm."

Many an industry in the city has had an equally humble beginning, but few of them have attained more success or brought greater cash return than the dairy business.

THE CHANGE-OVER—Unlike many industries and businesses in the city, the second generation of farmers in Delta county is taking over the farm when the "old man" retires.

Now there is a third generation—the present 4-H Club boys and girls—growing up to take pride in carrying on the family farm.

There is a stability to agriculture in Delta county that holds bright promise for the future. The time will come when the farm population will increase, rather than decrease as it did between 1940-50.

One of the reasons is the cooperative understanding and mutual helpfulness of the county and city folk, typified by the success of the potato program.

Power With Words

By Dr. C. E. Funk

The man of blameless character, whom we discussed the other day, is usually also said to be a man of high integrity and moral probity. But just what do we mean by those qualities?

Back in our school days we learned that an integer is a whole number, as distinguished from a fraction. And we may have been told that it is a Latin word meaning whole. This word comes in turn from the two Latin words in, not, and tango, touch.

A person of integrity is one whose character is whole and complete, one having a character that is undivided and unbroken, that has not been touched or smirched by anything unsound or immoral. In other words, the person spoken of is considered to be absolutely honest and upright in all respects, with a character that is above reproach.

To speak of such a person as also having moral probity is actually to gild the lily, to repeat what has already been said. Probity (PRO-bi-ti or PRAH-bi-ti) is from Latin probitas, which corresponds with our words honesty, uprightness, goodness, and in turn is derived from probus, good, proper, honorable, or upright. Our word probe, to search thoroughly, is from the same source. Accordingly, when we speak of a man's probity, we mean in effect that his honesty and integrity have been tested and proved.

Rectitude is another synonym. It designates the quality of being straight, straight in morals, in principles, and in conduct. It is from Latin rectus, straight, the stem of which is familiar in the word rectangle, a straight or right angle. Stern rectitude, sometimes seen in a parent, is that kind of rightness that is unyielding or inflexible.

One of the things he misses most because of high prices is the sweet, satisfying smell of frying calves' liver and onions, says Arch Nearbrite. Nobody in his neighborhood can afford the liver.

'Perfect Love Casteth Out Fear'

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

These are the words of John, the Apostle, in I John 4:18.

What was the fear in the hearts of the Christian disciples to whom the Apostle wrote? Why did John find it necessary to calm their fears? And what explanation did he make or how perfect love casts out fear?

We cannot with any complete realism reconstruct the scene and environment of those early Christians, but apparently they had plenty to fear. In our present-day world of confusion, uncertainty and danger, we can well understand what must have been the fear of most men in that time of cruel and intriguing rulers, with poverty always a menace, and war and violence ever present or threatening.

I doubt, however, whether it was such a fear that John had in mind. The "fear of the Lord" has much emphasis in both Old and New Testament religion. It was associated with a sense of God's greatness, His austere majesty, the awesomeness of His righteousness and His judgment.

Was it not this that John had emphasized in the very beginning of his Epistle? "Truly our fellowship is with the Father, and with His Son, Jesus Christ" (I John 1:3).

But it may not have been even this that John meant. "Fear," he says, "hath tor-

Chicago Dentist Ruined By Polio

CHICAGO (AP)—Two months ago Thomas Michiels, 31, appeared ready to fulfill his dream of acquiring a new home for his family and a fine practice as a dentist. Today he is paralyzed from the neck down, destitute and may never practice again.

His wife is in even more serious condition, completely paralyzed and in a respirator. Their son, Robert, 5, is paralyzed below the waist.

Polio did it.

Michiels put all his savings into opening the dental office in suburban Park Ridge, commuting more than 30 miles daily from his home on Chicago's far South Side. In the few weeks he was able to practice before polio struck, he made fast friends.

While the Michiels' two other small sons, who escaped the disease, are being cared for by grandparents, his new friends went to work and set up the Dr. Thomas A. Michiels fund. So far have raised $500.

Salt For Japan

MANILA (AP)—President Elpidio Quirino has approved the formation of a Philippine salt development syndicate with Japanese financial and technical assistance. A team of Japanese experts is expected to arrive shortly.

One way to conserve gasoline for automobiles and airplanes is to use "bottled gas" for fuel in city buses. Millions of country homes now are using it for cooking and a goodly number of buses are using it as fuel, enough to prove that it provides satisfactory and economical power.

Chicago: "Sound good, picture comment ranged from 'not too excellent' to 'incredibly bad'"—"Mink coats mingled with house dresses."

Baltimore: "Crowd included many servicemen"—"Technically good, sound better than picture"—"Not wildly enthusiastic, but good applause for some big scenes"—"One 60-second interruption due to technical troubles."

Cincinnati: "Overpriced"—"Better for the ear than for the eye."

Woman Convict, 28, Requests Christmas With Friends In Jail

ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—A 28-year-old New Orleans woman sentenced to four years in a federal penitentiary wants to spend Christmas "with all my friends" in the county jail here.

Mrs. Mercedes Adrian Caldwell made the request in Federal Court when she was sentenced yesterday on a charge of transporting a stolen car from New Orleans to Billings, Mont.

Mrs. Caldwell explained that she found prisoners and staff congenial at the Bernalillo County lockup during her 2½-month stay and she doesn't want to spend the holiday in a strange prison.

U. S. District Judge Carl Hatch instructed the U. S. marshal to fulfill the request if the law allows.

Research men, using huge doses of normally deadly radioactivity, have succeeded in keeping milk in good condition for at least a month under ordinary refrigeration.

Life Of A Bus Driver Has Many Experiences, Escanaban Finds

Some folks are easy to please, and others can never be pleased. The best way is to help the one who really needs it. So says Vincent Myers, 502 South 9th street, who has been a bus driver for 17 years.

"Children are easier to handle than adults on a bus," the veteran driver observes. "They pay attention to what you tell them and obey." Adults, particularly older folks, are inclined to disbelieve a driver and go their own way.

"They're the ones who get on the wrong bus or are left behind," Myers notes.

The life of a bus driver is a round of interesting experiences with folks, though drivers have their troubles too. Myers often grins when he hears some passenger remark, "Oh, my goodness, he almost hit that car!" But when he is carrying a passenger who is too hot, then too cold, is annoyed by smoking, and keeps wishing the driver didn't "come so close" to other vehicles, his attitude is apt to change.

"Some people forget they are not the only ones paying to ride on the bus," Myers observes.

Likes Michigan Roads

The Escanaba driver, who is one of 16 taking buses to and from Escanaba, began driving when he was 21. Prior to coming here in 1939, to take an Escanaba to Milwaukee run, he drove bus in Montana, Minnesota, the Dakotas and in Wisconsin.

He likes to drive on Michigan roads, which he says are superior to those of any other state he has traveled. The roads are wider, better marked and better maintained here, Myers believes. He says Michigan roads are built better and also are more scenic. In some states, the driver observes, snowplowing is started only after a storm is over, and sanding of icy roads comes only after accidents point to a hazard.

Shortly before coming to Escanaba, Myers had an interesting bout with a North Dakota snowstorm which piled drifts 15 to 20 feet high on the roadway, and dipped the thermometer to 20 below. Most buses had been cancelled at the time, but some had to get through. Myers was one of the drivers assigned to take a bus from Glenview, Mont., to Bismark, N. D.

Near the Dakota Badlands area, Myers came to a section of road where drifts were too high for the bus to get through. On a long chance, he decided to back up, get a good start, and break the drift it a faster speed. The trick worked, but only after the bus had traveled about 100 feet on top of rusted snow. The vehicle sunk into the drifts, and the bus was surrounded with snow.

Myers and another driver accompanying him shoveled through the drift, to free the bus door, and made a path to the top of the drift. Passengers were led from the submerged bus across crusted snow to nearby resort. Help came 12 hours later, when a snowplow from Dickinson, N. D., finally got through the drifts. Many of the passengers on that trip were Californians, and the event was their first experience with snow, Myers recalls.

Seldom Gets Sleepy

In Michigan, the veteran driver has not had any particularly tough experiences with winter storms, and he rarely loses a schedule because of weather. He says he hasn't missed one in two years. Sometimes though inclement weather makes it necessary to "run light," and buses then are late.

Fighting sleep on night trips isn't much of a job, except at break of dawn, when the sun is on the rim of the horizon, Myers says. When a driver gets sleepy, he can get relief, or he can break his routine by stopping for coffee, a cigarette or soft drinks. Most drivers don't have trouble keeping awake in the dark hours, though physical illness sometimes may cause a driver to become sleepy.

Myers, who served three years as an armored tank repairman in World War II, has worked both as spare mechanic and relief dispatcher at the bus terminal here. If he has minor mechanical difficulty with a bus, he often repairs it himself. Another bus soon arrives to replace any vehicle which can't be fixed "in a jiffy" with simple tools.

Bus drivers change their own flats, and are not permitted to travel with one flat on dual wheels, Myers points out. They carry one spare, and usually try to put the worn tire on the inside, where friction is greatest. A new tire on the inside will heat up and "blow out," the veteran driver notes. Last Christmas, he recalls, chief dispatcher Norm Hansen of Escanaba had to bring him a tire, when a nail and a blowout gave him two flats at the same time.

In addition to operating the bus, drivers for the company employ Myers sell tickets at roadstops and assist passengers with baggage and parcels. Deer hunting season used to bring a few carcasses to bus drivers, but since the war the increase in motor car ownership has all but eliminated the hunting trophy from the driver's baggage department.

Amusing Experience

The fun of bus driving, though, comes in working with people. Myers still is amused when he remembers an Upper Michigan woman who was traveling to Detroit. She boarded the bus at Calumet, and about every 15 minutes would ask when she would arrive. When Myers brought his bus into Rapid River, she was certain that by that time she should have been in Detroit. As Myers explained that she still was in Upper Michigan, she decided it was just too much for her. She bought another ticket and returned to Calumet!

The Escanaba driver admires foreign persons traveling on buses. They usually know their schedule of arrivals and departures before they ever board the bus, and often consult travel experts prior to making a trip. "Even if they can't speak English, they manage very well," Myers notes.

Babies and young children often are among Myers' 15 to 25 passengers. They usually go to sleep and let mothers relax, but at stopping points awaken, the driver observes. Often he helps mothers bring youngsters into restaurants, and "mints the kiddies" while their mother checks baggage.

Drivers sometimes have difficulty avoiding distraction by travelers. "Folks like to share their sandwiches, cookies and candies, but it's almost impossible to eat while driving," Myers notes.

Sometimes, a passenger even wants to share his liquor, particularly on Sundays. Of course, drivers can't drink and passengers aren't allowed to bring liquor aboard. If they have "a bottle," they are required to check it with the driver, who puts it in the baggage compartment, out of reach of the owner.

Holiday Season Hectic

The hectic days in bus driving come during holiday rushes. Usually there is much personal baggage, and often it is hard to determine the number of buses needed for each schedule. If buses available cannot accommodate the traffic, some stand longer than the driver would like. If passengers begin complaining, irritations have to be smoothed over by long-suffering drivers. There's always one consolation, though. Drivers, by regulation of the Interstate Commerce Commission, can not drive more than 10 hours in succession.

The holiday rushes sometimes result in confusion, especially if tickets are not legibly written or if passengers fail to check with the driver before boarding at transfer points. Myers, with chagrin, recalls one soldier who was going home for Christmas. When boarding at Chicago he had asked Myers if his bus was the "Menominee bus."

Myers replied, "Sure is." The hopeful lad rode peacefully to Menominee, where the driver informed him he had reached his destination. The young military man took a quick look and rather doubtfully said, "Doesn't look like it."

A Busman's Holiday

The driver thereupon checked the soldier's ticket, and found he was destined for Menominee, Wis. The lad was then given a ticket to his hometown, after apologies and a little despair on both sides. The busman's holiday appeals to Myers, and whenever he has a vacation, he travels about the country himself. He has visited California and other West Coast states, New York, Washington, D. C., Winnipeg, Can., Yellowstone and Glacier National Park, Lake Tahoe and Reno, Nev.

Traveling is fun for this driver, and he feels he makes a "better than average living" at the same time that he has some enjoyable experiences with people.

You're Nobody In Germany If Not A 'Doktor'

BOON, Germany—You're virtually nobody in Germany unless you have a doctor's title.

And you're really somebody if you are a double or triple doctor.

The title of "Dr." is a badge of distinction that brings you bows instead of a brushoff everywhere from government offices to repair shops.

Only a tiny fraction of Germany's "doctors" are medical men. Many of the nation's political leaders, newspapermen, economists and even industrial barons use this title.

Nearly one-third of the 420 members of parliament call themselves "doctor." Forty German news and radio correspondents who work here also are listed as "doctors."

A German who gets a doctorate degree from a university and passes a special state examination forever after calls himself "doctor."

Woe betide the one who fails to address such persons as "Herr Doktor." It's an insult to leave out the "doktor." And you must address the wife of a "Herr Doktor" as "Frau Doktor."

Many young Germans take a cynical view of this old practice. If they persist, the title of doctor may die outside the medical profession.

But doctor titles are still so serious that it's a criminal offense to use it illegally.

A small, super-elite group of Germans are double and triple doctors. They have more than one degree.

The Federal Interior Minister, for example, is "Dr. Dr. Robert Lehr." With a short name that's not so bad. But one member of parliament is "Dr. Dr. Robert Philipp Noel von der Nahmer."

The nation's leading psychologist is "Prof. Dr. Dr. Leopold von Wiese und Kaiserswaldau."

Third Of Teen-Agers Smoke

NEW YORK — More than one-third of all American boys between 15 and 19 smoke cigarettes, and make no secret of it. They smoke about 12 a day, according to a national survey of smoking habits made by Alfred Politz Research Inc.

One out of every 10 girls in the same age group also smoke. They average eight cigarettes a day.

The heaviest smokers are the men between 35 and 44. Four out of five smoke, averaging a pack a day. Two out of five women in the 25-34 bracket smoke an average of 13 cigarettes a day.

The Politz survey, taken among 5,000 people scattered around the country, showed that smokers more than double their consumption after adolescence and then begin to taper off after middle age.

One man in 16 and one woman in 50 smoke two packs or more a day. Farmers and farmers' wives smoke less than city folk.

Kipling Woman Who Hit Jackpot On Benson Radio Show Skips Bermuda Trip; Receives Cash, Many Gifts

Mrs. Victor Brock of Kipling, who hit the jackpot on the Red Benson show here during the U. P. State Fair in August, isn't "out anything" even if she isn't going to take the trip she won to Bermuda.

Mrs. Brock, who lives in a house trailer near the Kipling school, recently received a check for $500, in lieu of the trip, from one of the show's sponsors.

The Kipling winner has received all of her prizes except a sewing machine, which has been delayed because of a mix-up. She says she is well pleased with the gifts and has found them of real value.

Her "jackpot" included a bottle gas stove, an oil burner unit for a furnace, a broiler, four wrist watches, five lamps valued collectively at $300, a luncheon set with 12 napkins, a men's toiletry set, a matching can opener and knife sharpener, two dolls and two toy trucks.

Will Sell Some Gifts

Mrs. Brock's week-long trip to Bermuda, with one other person, was part of her winnings. She and her husband, a mechanic for the Marble-Card company in Gladstone, decided not to take the trip because of recent storms in Bermuda, and because of additional expenses they would have entailed. The Brocks learned that their fares to New York and back, exclusive of berths, would cost over $200, and the trip would have meant Mr. Brock's taking two to three weeks off from work.

Some of the presents received by Mrs. Brock will be sold because the lucky housewife hasn't room for them in her house trailer. She wishes she had a large house to use them in, for they "are just beautiful," she says. However, Mr. Brock also is a part-time trucker and the house trailer is more convenient when the couple needs to locate elsewhere. Previously they lived in Lower Michigan while Mr. Brock worked there.

The Kipling couple already has consulted with an income tax representative. They will be required to pay a fifth of the value of the goods in income taxes, including tax on the $500 given in lieu of the trip.

"It" Is Lucky Number

Mrs. Brock, who once won a potted plant on a local radio program, won her lot with numbers "937" and "7." Her knees "buckled" and she became very excited when her numbers were called during the fair here, she reports. To get the gifts, she answered three questions, including the jackpot question, which was "With all the hogs in the U. S., are any raised for bacon alone?"

The answer to that one was "yes," the Kipling mother reports. She says she listened to the programs regularly before the show was brought here, and had learned that the simple and obvious answer was usually not the correct one. When she listened at home, she mentally picked the opposite of the one she thought it should be. The technique scored for her at the fair.

A friend coaxed Mrs. Brock to go to the fair the day she won. Because her husband and son, Harry, 10, hadn't gone to the fair yet, she had been waiting until the family could go in a group.

She also correctly stated on the quiz that a toad was a better friend to a farmer than a snake, and that Napoleon's opponent was best known for his boots. A question on whether Scott's emulsion was to be eaten or drunk downed her.

Only two persons have won the jackpot on the Red Benson "Take a Number" show since she was successful, Mrs. Brock reports. However, some contestants go as high as eight or nine questions before they are downed, she notes. Mrs. Brock went down here on the third.

The Kipling woman says she is glad she isn't taking the Bermuda trip because she is "afraid" to ride in airplanes, and because she has always been timid about meeting strange people.

She's sharing some of her gifts with relatives and is making arrangements to sell some of them, including the gas stove, the oil burner unit and possibly the sewing machine, when it comes. She particularly likes the wrist watches, one of which she has given to her husband, and another to her son, for use when he is older.

A memento of the occasion has been given to the Brocks by a friend, who made a tape recording of the radio program while Mrs. Brock "was on the air."

Rare Reptile Is Muse Inspiration

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times ran a story recently regarding the public display of a tuatara by the Bronx Zoo. In the course of explaining how to pronounce the reptile's name, the story said it would fit into the title of a poem, "Ode Tuatara," but added that such a poem probably would never be written.

The story resulted in at least 19 tuatara poems being sent to the newspaper, one of which was published. The tuatara is a lizard-like reptile said to be the sole survivor of an order of reptiles known as rhynchocephalus which flourished between 75 and 150 million years ago.

Santa and the PIRATES

AP Newsfeatures
Lucrece Hudgins Beale

Santa and the Prince hauled the chest from the hole and staggered with it to the ship.

SYNOPSIS: Santa, the Prince and the elves swarmed all over the island looking for the buried treasure. They climbed a giant fir tree, found a nest full of white stones on which there were directions and finally reached the spot. They dug and dug until Jonathan's axe struck something hard 4 feet down.

CHAPTER X THE CHASE

Prince Jonathan cleared the dirt from the hard object he had struck. It was a great sea chest with a brass lock.

"Hooray!" shouted the delighted brownies.

"Heave ho!" shouted fat Horace. Fifteen elves yanked and pulled to lift the chest. It would not budge. The Prince could wait no longer to see what was in the box.

"Stand back!" he ordered. Then he raised his axe high and brought it crashing down on the brass lock. Three times he did this. The third time, the lock snapped, the top flew open and a king's ransom burst from the chest.

Diamonds and rubies, sapphires and emeralds were there. Silver plate and silver vases. Ivory bowls and ivory combs. And gold! Gold jewelry, gold bars and gold coins.

For a long moment everyone stared at this vast treasure. Then Prince Jonathan whispered, "My father is saved!"

Santa said, "There is enough gold and treasure to pay your father's debt and enrich your kingdom forever."

"I shall want only 20,000 pieces of gold," protested the Prince. "The rest goes to you and Santa Land."

Santa shook his head. "We are toy-makers. We have no need for gold and diamonds in Santa Land. It is all yours."

Then Santa said, "Make haste, now, and load it on the ship."

The brownies dug piles of treasure from the great sea chest. Patrick Tweedleknies, wearing 3 rings on each finger, a dozen bracelets on each arm, a rope of pearls around his neck, and a golden crown on his head, staggered off to the ship.

Fat little Horace filled his shirt with diamonds and marched away carrying a stack of gold plates twice as high as himself. Tricket hung earrings from his ears and nose, filled his pockets with gold and his mouth with rubies and carried a glittering punch bowl on top of his head.

Each brownie made three trips to the ship carrying treasure. At last the chest was half empty and Santa and the Prince hauled it from the hole. They lifted it to their shoulders and staggered to the ship.

Just as they got aboard Horace called out "Sail ho!" They all looked where Horace pointed. Sure enough there was a great ship bearing down on them.

"It's the pirates!" shouted Prince Jonathan. "It's Captain Longhair and his crew!"

"Weigh anchor!" ordered Santa. The brownies fell over each other pulling the heavy anchor aboard.

"Pile on sail!" ordered Santa. The brownies piled on all the sail the Merry Christmas carried. Just in time, too. No sooner had they pulled away from the island than there was a tremendous splash in the spot where they had been.

"They're firing at us!" gasped the Prince. Another cannon ball landed off the stern. It sent a storm of spray over the ship's deck.

"Don't worry," said Santa cheerfully. "They will never catch us."

The Merry Christmas led the pirates a gay chase. For a while they were just beyond reach of their cannon fire. Then Santa said, "Now we will lose them." Immediately they began to pull away and very soon the pirate ship was lost to sight.

Santa and the Prince and all the Santa Land folk burst into happy cheers. But suddenly Tricket tugged at Santa's sleeve. "Where is Tweedleknies? I can't find him."

"Tweedleknies!" called Santa cheerfully. "Let's make some rubber balls!"

"Tweedleknies!" chorused the workers gaily. "Come and make us work, Mr. Tweedleknies!"

But there was no Tweedleknies anywhere. The gay chatter died away. The Prince's legs grew weak. Santa turned pale.

They stared at one another and all knew the awful truth. Patrick Tweedleknies had been left behind.

Farm Bureau Sees Need Of Expanding U. S. Foreign Trade

By JIM HUTCHESON

SEATTLE (AP) — Delegates to the American Farm Bureau Federation Convention Wednesday began the No. 1 business of their 34th annual session—charting the organization's policy course for 1953.

Members of the Resolutions Committee reported their recommendations to the voting delegates will emphasize more strongly than ever before the advisability of a national policy of expanding world trade.

Economists Heard
A brief in the necessity of foreign trade as a two-way street, by which farm products can be moved to foreign markets, has been emphasized repeatedly since the convention opened Monday. It has been expounded by economists on the convention rostrum and by the federation president, Allan B. Kline.

Other points listed for emphasis by the Resolutions Committee include a need for decentralization of government, research in agriculture and control of inflation.

A committee member said the resolutions prepared for action at the final afternoon session follow generally the principles set forth in previous annual platforms; "the change is on emphasis."

The federation, the nation's largest farm organization with nearly 112 million families, is generally recognized as a conservative farmers' group.

The normally controversial resolution on price support levels for farm products is de-emphasized this year, committee members indicated, by the premise that leaders of both major political parties are committed to a "hands-off" approach to the existing law, which runs through he 1954 crop year.

Research, to be emphasized by resolution, was described to the convention Monday by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico, former secretary of agriculture in the Truman administration, as the reliable key to the agricultural future.

He discounted price support programs as a long-range solution.

He cited a campaign statement by President-elect Eisenhower in support of developing "an agricultural research and extension program to meet present and future needs," and asserted:

"It should be a matter of great comfort to us to note what the winning candidate said on he subject."

Fires destroy wildlife. The food, the young, and the homes of all forms of wildlife are destroyed by wildly running fires. Rabbits, squirrels, quail, and tur-bearing animals, provide food, recreation, and income to the farmer. Birds which eat insects and weed seeds are also destroyed by woods fires. Stamp these wild fires out.

The Barnston Needs No Basement

Rooms ..... Six
Bedrooms ..... Three
Closets ..... Eight
Cubage: House ..... 15,500 ft.
Garage ..... 5,800 ft.
Dimensions ..... 37'x26'

Because it doesn't require any basement, "The Barnston," has a special appeal for those folks who want a good sized, well planned and attractive home—but who must build on a limited budget.

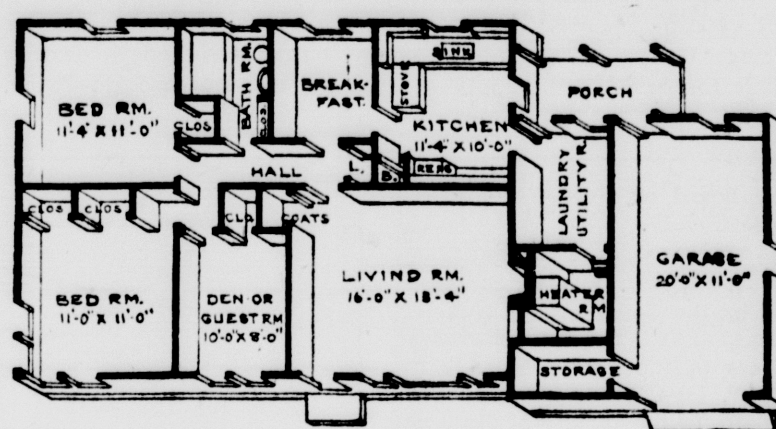

On the other hand, if you prefer to have a full or partial basement under your home, there's nothing to prevent you from having "The Barnston" thus constructed. A full basement will provide you with ample space for a family playroom as well as extra area for storage.

Should you decide to build "The Barnston" with a basement, you can have the heating plant installed under the living room rather than in the first floor heater room, as specified in the accompanying plan. Then, either the laundry - utility room or the storage compartment can be enlarged to take up the space that would normally be used for the heater room.

The generous use of windows brings much of the outdoors right inside "The Barnston"; so many windows also improve the exterior appearance of the house. Homey is perhaps the most apt one word description of the exterior of "The Barnston"; the attached garage utility and storage wing forms an integral and very important part of the overall architecture and appearance of the house.

Measurements of the house proper are 37' x 26'; overall measurements, including the attached garage, storage and utility wing, are 67' x 26'. Hence, you should have at least a 90 foot lot on which to build "The Barnston." The house has a cubage of 15,500 feet while the cubage of the garage is 5,800 feet.

As in so many of today's homes, the living room in "The Barnston" does double duty as a combination living - dining room. However, the spacious, well lighted breakfast room, opening to the left off the kitchen, can be used for most of the family's meals.

Both regular bedrooms reap the benefits of good lighting and cross ventilation and offer good storage space. The master bedroom has four windows and two closets while the back bedroom has two windows and one closet. If you should need a third bedroom, the 10' x 8' den or guest room could serve very nicely. This room has two windows and a good sized closet.

Carefully planned for convenience and comfort, the rooms in "The Barnston" are so arranged that work such as the laundry, meal preparation, etc., is carried on at the right part of the house. Rooms for relaxation, and eating are placed in the center and the sleeping rooms are in the left end. Because of the well planned interior layout it's not necessary to go through the bedrooms or living room to get from one part of the house to another.

Blueprints Available
Complete plans and specification for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost.

Recently on Sniper Ridge the Chinese struck with a reinforced battalion one morning and drove the outnumbered South Koreans off the entire ridge. But this wasn't reported until five hours later to division headquarters. Instead the ROK (Republic of Korea) regimental command post reported merely that seven Chinese Red companies had attacked, but had withdrawn.

When the truth was learned, an impatient U. S. major said: "If they wouldn't lie, we could help them." However, when the gallant ROKs stormed back up the hill and knocked the Chinese off, the 8th Army was informed of the victory in a matter of minutes.

Comedian Skelton To Have Operation For Painful Ailment

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Suffering from a painful diaphragmatic hernia, comedian Red Skelton was scheduled to undergo surgery at St. John's Hospital.

The ailment was diagnosed several days ago. Physicians at first thought they might be able to postpone surgery to the comic could resume filming his television shows.

However, friends said, the hernia permitted his stomach to push against his heart and lungs, causing breathing difficulties and other unpleasant symptoms.

Mrs. Georgia Skelton said her husband appeared jovial yesterday when "he finally made his decision to get it over with as soon as possible."

Dr. Stanley Immerman and three specialists will operate. The surgery is expected to take from 3 1/2 to five hours.

"Red's public was unaware that he had been in excruciating pain since the beginning of his television stint this season," said his wife.

Commenting on recent reports of family dissension, Mrs. Skelton said: "Red and I still happen to be in love." He spoke to her at the hospital last night and to their children, Richard, 4 1/2, and Valentina, 5 1/2.

Six of his television shows have been filmed ahead.

The oldest Community Forest known in the United States is at Newington, New Hampshire. It was established in 1710 and has been in operation ever since that date. The forest contains 112 acres.

Just Growing Beard Makes Actor A Hit

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Success is a funny thing. It can come from the most trivial of happenings, such as growing a beard.

That's how Gene Evans made it. Clean-shaven, he was a bum. With a beard on, he's a hit actor who is always working.

You've seen Gene in numerous war pictures. Usually he's the grizzled old sarge, although once he made it up to major. He's been before the cameras almost without vacation in the past 2½ years. And that's as long as he's been sporting the beard.

Meals Irregular

Gene, who was born in Holbrook, Ariz., and brought up in Colton,

Protect Shrubbery From Winter Harm, Specialist Advises

EAST LANSING—Cold weather is here, and storms bringing heavier snows will be coming—and that means work for the gardener who cares, advises Joseph T. Cox, extension landscape specialist at Michigan State College.

"If you anticipated winter and tied up your shrubs and evergreens against damage by winter snows, you need not worry. But if you have tall evergreens or multi-branched shrubs that are easily broken by heavy snow, it's time for work," the expert recommends.

It's a good idea to anchor tall evergreens to long stakes driven into the ground to provide adequate support. If the stakes are painted green, they can do their job of supporting limbs or breakable plants and not be noticed. Soft cloth strips or pieces of rubber hose are good for tying plants to supports without damaging plant tissues; main stems can be supported between two or more stakes.

Multi-branched shrubs usually can be given enough support by tying the branches together with pieces of soft cloth, advises Cox. This will combine the strength of the branches—usually enough to prevent injury; but if each branch must stand alone to support heavy snow, damage is likely to result.

"A cold, wet job of shaking snow from landscape plants to bind them up can be avoided by working between snowfalls now. The gardener who waits until deep winter snows pile in on limber plants may see the snow take a toll. Act now," suggests the MSC landscape specialist.

Green tipped bananas are best for cooking—ripe bananas flecked with brown are best for salads and fruit cups. Try baking this fruit by placing it in a well-buttered pan and sprinkling with salt and baking at 375 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes. For variations, bake with brown sugar, molasses or cranberries.

The Iroquois tribes, estimated to have numbered little more than 16,000 people, are credited by historians with checking French expansion southward from Canada and thus permitting English occupation of what later became the United States.

Calif., got his acting start in Little Theaters and assailed the Hollywood gates in 1947. To use a movie-town phrase—nothing! His film roles were few and paltry, and meals were irregular.

"Things were really rough, so I moved up to a little place in Topanga Canyon," he recalled. "I began to think of myself as a character, living up in the woods there. So I grew a beard. That did it."

"I got a call for a part in 'Steel Helmet.' Sam Fuller, the writer and director, liked me and gave me the job. He told me to keep the beard."

Gene has had the bush ever since, except for a two-month interval. He hacked it down to a mere mustache for his role as the newspaper publisher in "Park Row." Significantly, the picture was not as successful as his others, although it turned a profit.

I asked him if he would keep the beard and become a rugged Monty Woolley. At present, he has trimmed it down to a sleek, spade-like affair for his role as the Oriental heavy in "The Golden Blade."

"I don't know whether I'll keep it or not," he replied. "I'm okay as long as they keep making war pictures and if I can work into adventure pictures like this one. But it might limit the kinds of roles I can take."

Fairy Tale Refreshing

Capsule Review: "Hans Christian Andersen" is a handsome hunk of entertainment for the holiday season. Although it doesn't look like the four million dollars worth its producer claims it cost, it is properly garish for a film of this scope. The plot is admittedly a fairy tale, though not as imaginative as the ones Andersen himself concocted. There are no surprises in the story. But the dances are stunning, and the Frank Loesser songs provide the best new film musical score in years. Danny Kaye is refreshingly restrained in the title role, and dancing. Farley Granger has a thankless part.

Bandleader Trades Wives With Agent

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Bandleader Billy May is going to marry the divorced wife of his business agent, Carlos Gastel, and Gastel, in a reciprocal mood, is going to wed the former Mrs. Billy May.

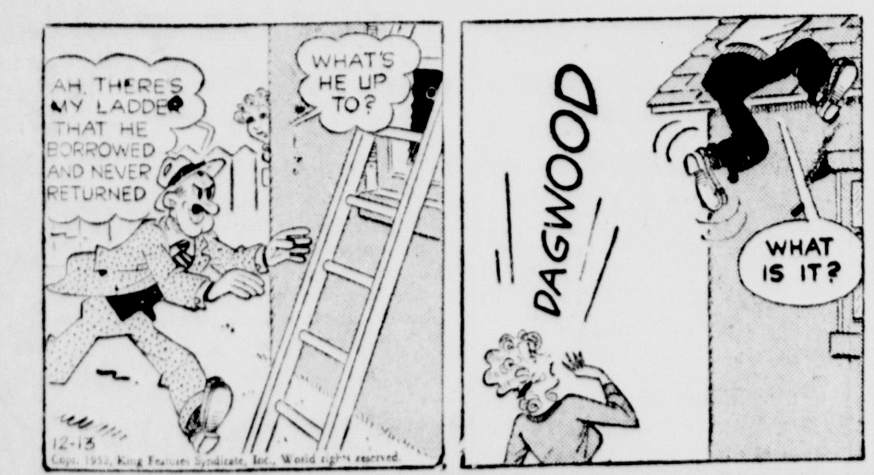

That's the way things are, says May's press agent, Gene Howard, who added that Mrs. Gastel and May are in Bloomington, Ill., where May is on tour with his orchestra. Gastel and Mrs. May are due back from an eastern trip today, said Howard. May and Mrs. Gastel are expected home just before Christmas.

The Mays were divorced Nov. 21, the Gastels Dec. 2. Both wives alleged cruelty. Both have two children by their divorced mates.

Howard said the quadrangle started when Gastel began managing May a year ago.

"He became friendly with Billy's wife," said Howard. "and it got to be a constant thing. With Billy and Mrs. Gastel it seemed to start out as a matter of crying on each other's shoulder, but soon they were being seen together a lot."

Automatic Paint Mixer Invented

NEW YORK (AP)—A new push button device mixes paints to the precise color of a sample in less than 90 seconds. The mechanism, known as the automatic color carousel, mixes paint to match a selected color chip, putting into a container just the right amount of various colors to match the original.

The machine takes about half the space of an office desk. It stores specially formulated liquid colors in containers housed in a varicolored revolving drum atop its counter-high base and measures them with laboratory accuracy into cans of base paints, enamels or stains.

AS WE LIVE

Stepmother Must Demand More Respect Or Get Out

By Elizabeth B. Hurlock, Ph.D.
The role of a stepmother is one of the hardest jobs in the world. It is also one of the most unappreciated, as the writer of this letter has discovered:

(Q) "I am married to a man whose wife died and left him with five children. Four were at home when we married. Two of them are now married. It is the married daughters who are causing trouble. Everything I do is wrong. They don't want their younger sisters, 11 and 16, to help me. I have two small children of my own and I have not been well. Their father doesn't discipline these two girls and the older sisters tell people how I mistreat the two at home. I am not supposed to have anything to say about what they do. They seem to be just mine to work for."

(A) I think the time has come for you to call a family conference and put your problems before the whole family. It's time your husband stood up for you and saw to it that the children whom you have taken care of since their mother's death showed you respect and appreciation.

It is absurd for you to keep working for people whose only thanks is an insult. If you are not supposed to have any say about your stepdaughters' upbringing, then let their father and sisters take over your job.

If the older daughters keep causing trouble by turning their younger sisters against you, keep them out of the house or get out of it yourself. Whatever you do, put a stop to their troublemaking.

So long as you are willing to take their mistreatment, you cannot expect anything else. If, however, you stiffen your backbone and demand respect and help, you are likely to get it. You may have to take a temporary vacation from your home, taking your own children with you, and letting your stepdaughters and husband run things themselves. This will be the quickest way to bring them to their senses.

If you have a problem about family or friend, ask Dr. Hurlock to help you. Write in care of this newspaper.

Mincemeat Cakes Are News

SURPRISE DESSERT with Christmas flavor in more ways than one is an individual mincemeat cake with lemon-butter frosting.

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Here's a Christmas recipe everyone is going to like—little individual mincemeat pies with lemon-butter frosting. And very easy to make, for packaged mincemeat is used.

This prepared mincemeat is made of dried apples, raisins, currants, citrus peel, brown sugar, salt, spices, cooked beef, white vinegar and cider. All these ingredients are mixed, compressed into 9-ounce blocks and packaged in cartons.

Christmas Mincemeat Cakes

(Makes 1½-dozen large cupcakes)

One 9-ounce package of mincemeat, ¾ cup water, 2 cups sifted flour, ¾ cup sugar, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup soft shortening, ½ cup milk, 2 eggs, unbeaten, 1 teaspoon vanilla extract.

Break mincemeat into small pieces and place in saucepan. Add water. Place over heat; stir until lumps are thoroughly broken. Boil briskly for one minute. Cool to room temperature.

Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder, baking soda and salt into large mixing bowl. Add shortening, cooled mincemeat and ¼ cup of milk. Beat 2 minutes. (If an electric mixer is used, set at medium or slow speed and beat 2 minutes.)

Add remaining ½ cup milk, eggs and vanilla extract. Beat 1 minute. Fill well-greased cupcake pans 2-3 full. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until cakes are lightly brown and top springs back when lightly pressed with finger. Cool. Frost with lemon-butter frosting.

Lemon-Butter Frosting

(Makes 2 cups)

One-quarter pound (½ cup) butter, softened, 4 cups sifted confectioners' sugar, 4 tablespoons milk or cream, ½ teaspoon lemon extract, red or green food coloring.

Cream butter until light and fluffy. Gradually add sugar; stir until well blended. Stir in milk or cream, 1 tablespoon at a time until mixture is of good spreading consistency. Beat until light and fluffy. Add lemon extract; blend well.

Reserve ½ cup frosting for lettering. Frost sides and top of Christmas Mincemeat cakes. Color reserved frosting. Place frosting in pastry tube. Letter cakes to spell "Merry Christmas" or "Happy New Year."

Hockey To Get Board Support

A decision to give "all out" support to local hockey has been reached by the City Recreation Commission, it is announced by T. H. Reque, director.

Ed Broughton, high school faculty member and a player with the Escanaba hockey team last season, has been engaged as hockey instructor. Details of the Manistique hockey program will be announced later by Broughton.

The recreation board also has agreed to assist in the purchase of some hockey equipment. Reque said, including playing material for the goalie which is more expensive than other player equipment. Other players will be required to furnish their own equipment.

A new hockey rink in Central Park has been built and is ready for flooding. The rink, equipped with sides constructed last year, has been enlarged and reshaped this season, the recreation director stated.

Ends of the rink, instead of being square, have been rounded and the playing area has been lengthened 20 feet. Overall rink size is now 80 by 160 feet.

Although hockey for youths of high school age will be promoted, attention will be centered primarily on youngsters from eight years to high school, Reque said.

A public rink has been built adjacent to the hockey area and also is ready for first flooding. The recreation board has approved plans for reserving the public rink on certain evenings for adults and on other evenings for small children. As in the past music will be provided during skating hours.

Operation details of the public rink will be announced later, Reque said.

The recreation director reported that the ski tow area also is being prepared for winter activities, with removal of weeds, tall grass and some shrubbery. A regular operation program for the ski tow will be established and announced later.

The Manistique Ski Club will have charge of all local ski activities.

The commercial sturgeon fishery of the American Atlantic coast is almost a thing of the past. The sturgeon, hunted intensively because caviar is made from its roe, is now so scarce it does not pay fishermen to set expensive nets at sea.

Chicagoan Sees Dimension Plant

The owner of a Chicago manufacturing firm was in Manistique Thursday to inspect the Michigan Dimension Company plant building, it is reported by the industrial committee of the Top O' Lake Michigan Chamber of Commerce.

Although disclosure of the firm's name and product would be premature, the chamber committee reported that the company is definitely interested in the local factory building, and the owner was impressed with the building's condition and its facilities.

Owners of the local building have been contacted and the chamber has been assured that the plant property is for sale.

A representative of the chamber's industrial committee contacted the factory operator a week ago during a visit to Chicago, and the owner's trip to Manistique was a result.

The Michigan Dimension Company, formerly operated by the Dearborn Company, closed last July and the plant's machinery was sold at public auction in October. The plant, however, still contains its power facilities, dry kilns and sawmill equipment.

Among some ancient peoples when a man died without sons, his brother was required to marry his widow and get a son by her which was accounted the son of the dead brother.

Light will appear redder if its source is moving away from the observer and this effect has been used to develop the theory that every major portion of the universe is moving away from every other portion.

IN MEMORIAM
To the beautiful memory of our dearly beloved husband and father, Victor Sabier, who passed away seven years ago today, December 13, 1945.

We seem to see in the soft dim light, A face we loved the best, And think of him when the sun's last rays

Goes down in the far off west; We miss you no less as the time passes on.

Than we did on the day of your going. For absence can never close the door of our hearts.

And the lamp of our love is still glowing. Your heart was the truest in all the wide world.

Your love the best to recall; For no one on earth could take your place. You are still the dearest of all.

Lovingly remembered by MRS. ROSE SABER AND CHILDREN. 9222-348-11

Wilson hit the bucket for 16 points to trail his center mate Bob McNamara in the scoring column. McNamara scored 27 to take honors in that department. ## Saxton's Foe Folds, Commissioner Angry

By JACK HAND
NEW YORK (AP) — The boxing director of the International Boxing Club was asked to appear at the New York State Athletic Commission Monday to discuss future matchmaking policy after last night's one-round knockout win by Johnny Saxton at Madison Square Garden.

Harry Markson, IBC official, was asked to come down to the commission by Chairman Bob Christenberry, who watched at ringside when Cuban Raul Perez was counted out in 2:54 of the first round after taking a right-left combination to the body.

And the state chairman also wants to know who in his own organization approved the Saxton-Perez match. He said after the fight he would seek that information Monday.

Sudden Collapse
Christenberry said he had been assured by Dr. Ira McCown and Dr. Alexander Schiff that Saxton's blows caused sufficient pain to cause a knockout.

The 26-year-old Cuban crumpled unexpectedly and collapsed near the ropes without warning. Saxton had thrown a right to the body and then followed with a left hook.

The Braves travel to Munising next weekend.

Hermansville Buried 83-67 By P-S Tigers

POWERS—Coach Irving Soderlund's Powers-Spaulding Tigers blistered the laces at a white-hot pace here last night while trimming the Hermansville Redskins 83-67 before a packed house.

Powers trailed 19-17 at the end of the first period but turned on the heat early in the second frame to pull out in front. At halftime the Tigers led 37-31 and they stretched that margin to 58-46 at the three-quarter mark.

In the third period the Tigers were deadly from the field, converting on seven of eight field goals. John Henderson, who led the Powers scoring, hit four buckets in the period.

Luke Will Wait 'Til He Knows Who's Who

CLEVELAND (AP) — When Luke Easter saw Indians' General Manager Hank Greenberg Friday, Hank asked if he'd like to talk contract.

The big first baseman asked when the Indians' stockholders meeting was to be held, the one that will determine who the bosses will be.

Hank answered next Thursday. Luke replied: "I'll see you Friday."

FIRST WIN
OLIVET (AP) — Aquinas' Lloyd Brown looped in 23 points, but all in vain last night as Olivet defeated the Grand Rapids basketball club, 72-65. Incidentally, it was Olivet's first victory of the season after two setbacks.

Iron Mountain Trims Eskymo Cagers 78-61

IRON MOUNTAIN — (Special) — Escanaba's defenses fell apart here last night to let the fired-up Iron Mountain Mountaineers race to a 78-61 cage victory.

Both teams opened fast but Iron Mountain took early command and led 16-12 at the end of the first period. The Mountaineers never let Escanaba get closer than that throughout the remainder of the game.

Billy Laydon, tall Mountaineer forward-center, kept the Eskymos in hot water with his accurate hooks and push-shots. He scored nine times from the field and five from the free throw line for 23 points.

10 Scorers
But Laydon wasn't the only Mountaineer who was hot last night. Coach Joe Poisson used 10 players and every one of them got into the scoring act. Rahoi assisted Laydon with 16 and Bob Pozza contributed 10.

Escanaba's Dick Peterson played an outstanding game at a forward post. He clicked on seven field goals and nine free throws to tie Laydon for high point honors. His rebounding kept the Eskymos in the ball game.

Fred Boddy, clever Eskey center, whipped in 20 points but from there on the scoring fell sharply to seven points registered by Arni Dunathan, reserve forward. John Peterson and Bill LeMire each made three points. Jim Bolm scored two and Con Michael. Tom Gregoire and Pat McDonough contributed one each.

Foul Out
John Peterson and LeMire fouled out of action late in the third period and McDonough followed them to the showers early in the fourth.

A total of 47 personal fouls was called in the game, 23 on the Eskymos.

The loss leaves Escanaba with a record of two wins and two losses this season.

Coach Joe Milokna's Eskey Bees lost a 61-46 verdict to the Iron Mountain junior varsity in the preliminary game.

Escanaba returns to action in a home stand against the tough Ishpeming Hematites next Friday night.

Final Second Shot Too Late, Nahma Gets 60-59 Cage Win Over Trenary

NAHMA — The Nahma Arrows took a 60-59 verdict over Trenary here last night in a game so close that it took a decision from the official timekeeper to settle the outcome.

With two seconds showing on the clock, a jump ball was called in Trenary's free throw circle.

Trenary got the tip to Richard Rukilla who swished a jump shot through the net.

Unable to determine if time had run out, the officials called for a decision from Lew J. Bramer, timekeeper. He ruled that the two seconds had elapsed before the ball left Rukilla's hands and the basket did not count. The score remained at 60-59 for Nahma.

There was considerable confusion on the floor as the game ended but the official decision was accepted without question by Trenary players and coaches.

It was nip and tuck throughout with Nahma gaining a 12-10 first quarter lead. Trenary spurred for 20 points in the second quarter to go ahead 30-25 at the half. It was all even, 43-43, at the end of the third period.

Taylor, tall and lanky Trenary forward was sensational from the floor last night. He came out with high point honors on 13 field goals and three free throws for 29 points.

Wendell Roddy led Nahma on the scoreboard with 19 tallies.

Nahma won a 48-26 decision in the preliminary between the Bee teams.

Four Rinks To Be Available

With cold weather in sight here work has begun on four skating rinks throughout the city. It was announced today by Art Petersen, recreation director.

Royce and Webster park rinks will be open for the Christmas holidays if the weather is favorable. Shelter houses have been installed at Royce, Webster and the Escanaba Junior High rinks. Grading of areas in preparation for flooding will begin this week.

Again this year the Ogden rink will be available for the smaller skaters and should also be open before Christmas. The Junior High rink will be used for junior hockey games and practice as well as for general skating. Hockey boards have been put up.

The indoor rink at the fairgrounds is being readied for the coming season. Hockey boards have been installed and flooding will begin soon. The rink has been lengthened by 30 feet for the hockey program. The added space will also provide more ice for the annual Ice Revue and general skating.

Skating schedules will be set up by the Recreation department soon. Jens Jensen will be the rink director with Ed Buckland assisting.

In This Corner

With Ray Crandall

The Detroit Free Press recently announced its 1952 all-state high school football selections, with 45 Upper Peninsula players honored. Gaining recognition on the Class B list from this area were Bob McNamara of Manistique, Martin Becker, Jack Holme and Lowell LaPlant of Gladstone, Paul Davidson and Fred Boddy of Escanaba. In Class C the Detroit paper gave honorable mention to Jim Cashin and Tom Brien of St. Joe.

Green Bay Packer fans are comparing a rookie end from Rice Institute, Bill Howton, with the immortal Don Hutson. In 11 games this season Howton has caught 45 passes for 1,069 yards and 11 touchdowns. He'll close the season against the Forty Niners in San Francisco Sunday. The great Hutson, who broke into pro football when the forward pass was used much more sparingly than it is today, was at his yardage best in 1942 when he gained 1,211 yards on 74 receptions.

We can't figure the flood of support by national sports writers to the Notre Dame cause in the recent "sucker shift" affair. Sports followers are acquainted with the maneuver in which the Notre Dame backfield shifted out of a T formation into a "Notre Dame box" just before the snap of the ball. The result was often a premature charge on the part of the opposing linemen who confused the shift with the snap of the ball. The Irish used the trick effectively against several teams this season. To us it is strictly a stunt to pull the opposition offside and gain five yards via penalty.

Fr. Stephen Schneider, St. Joe athletic director, will represent Upper Peninsula Parochial high schools at the tournament committee meeting in Crystal Falls Monday. The committee will name the sites of Upper Peninsula district and regional basketball tournaments in March.

Golden Glovers Begin Workouts Here Monday

Delta county boxers will open training Monday for the annual Upper Peninsula Golden Gloves championship tournament, which will be held here in February.

The boxers will train this year at Club 314, Escanaba's Youth Center. The training program will be under the direction of Ray Crandall.

All youths over 15 years of age interested in the program are invited to attend the workouts. The workouts will be held each Monday and Tuesday afternoons from 5 to 7 and Thursday night from 7 to 9.

Boxers are to report for the first workout Monday at 5.

The Golden Gloves training program got under way through the Upper Peninsula this week with boxers working out at Manistique, Menominee, Marquette, Iron Mountain and Negaunee. One of the tournament's largest entry lists is expected.

The Escanaba Lions Club sponsors the Upper Peninsula Golden Gloves championship tournament each year in Escanaba. Champions in both the open and novice divisions will be sent to Milwaukee to compete in the Milwaukee Journal tournament. Winners in the open division there are entered in the Chicago Tournament of Champions.

The tournament here will be staged Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 2-3.

Study Recruiting Of College Athletes

Poll Proves Little Change

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK (AP)—The efforts of the National Collegiate AA, the American Council on Education and other groups to find a sane and scholastically sound solution to the problems of recruiting and subsidizing athletes are beginning to take effect.

The changes may be slow and in some cases so small as to be almost invisible, but the replies of 163 sports writers and broadcasters to the Associated Press post-season questionnaire indicate definitely that changes are taking place. That is in spite of a negative reply of 103-60 in answer to the question: "Have there been any changes in recruiting practices and the awarding of scholarships in your area since the many efforts of last spring to control the game?"

No Need For Change

The majority said "no" and some said it very firmly. But at least a dozen of the negative votes indicated that the writers saw no change because there was no reason for it. Schools in their area, they said, hadn't previously indulged in bad practices. A few, on the other hand, detected changes for the worse.

The obvious conclusion is that things can't be at complete standstill when three out of every five writers and broadcasters, representing every section of the country, can find some evidence of changes.

The consensus is that the improvement—if that's what you call it—falls somewhat short of the standards set up by the top agencies. As one Midwestern observer put it: "Recruiting and subsiding are without doubt being done in better taste."

Limits Scholarships

The southeastern Conference rule limiting each school to 30 athletic scholarships for each freshman class was cited as an example of a move toward a more moderate program and of an unchanged situation in which recruiting and athletic scholarships still existed. And the rigid Southwest Conference limits on grants-in-aid was mentioned as a "sound" program that didn't call for any changes.

The biggest difference noticed by most observers was the increasing tendency of schools to look for good athletes who also are good students and to hand out their scholarships more carefully, with an eye on academic standards.

Some typical comments, pro, con and in between: "I think all colleges either pulled in on scholarships or are watching grades more than in recent years."

"Scholarships still awarded, but they're thinking twice now before giving them out."

"Still as many scouts and even better propositions for prospective varsity material."

Talent Is High

"Top talent still comes high. Personality of coaches has increasing effect on kids."

"No. That's rubbish. No school in major football circles has changed."

"It has been apparent that such football-conscious schools as Notre Dame, Michigan State and Michigan in this section have exercised more care in issuing scholarships, but they certainly are guarding against weakening themselves. They still are obtaining material, and I think most of them are doing it advisedly and honestly."

"The Big Seven seems to have clamped down, but it's difficult to keep the alumni groups from lending assistance."

"Don't know of any. I do know of the U. of Florida turning down a whole lot of high school football players because of his marks."

"Tulane cut down athletic scholarships to 75, a drastic change."

"No Ivy League scouts hunt the talent as much as the others, but they want players who are top students."

Win Will Cinch Title Tie For Detroit Lions

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Lions, favored by three touchdowns, can cinch at least a title tie in the National Conference of the National Football League by whipping the last-place Dallas Texans today.

No matter what happens, today, the Lions must sit back and await the Los Angeles Rams-Pittsburgh Steelers Sunday game to learn the outcome of the conference race. The Lions and the Rams are tied for first, each with 8-3 records.

If the teams remained tied, they'll play here Dec. 21 to determine who plays the American Conference winner.

The Lions beat the orphaned Texans 43-13 earlier in the season. This time Detroit will likely be without services of injured halfbacks Guy Girard and Bob Hoernschemeyer and tackle Bob Miller. Left halfback Doak Walker, the Lions' scoring ace for the 1950 and 1951 season, will start for the first time since the second game of the season. His injured leg is healed.

Even if the weather is fair, the smallest crowd of the year is expected—somewhere between 10,000 and 20,000.

TANK VICTORY

ALBION (AP)—With Tom Allen winning the 100-yard and 220-yard freestyle events, Albion's swimming team turned back the Chicago branch of the University of Illinois, 50-34, here last night in its opening meet of the 1952-53 season.

Baugh And Albert Take Final Bows

NEW YORK (AP)—Sammy Baugh and Frankie Albert, two of the game's all-time greats, call it a career Sunday while three teams battle for National Football League playoff berths.

Playoff berths in both the American and National conferences are at stake. Cleveland's perennial champion Browns can wrap up the American title with a triumph over the New York Giants at the Polo Grounds.

The National Conference crown lies between the Detroit Lions and Los Angeles Rams. The Lions can take a half game edge over the Rams when they clash with the homeless Dallas Texans today. The Rams entertain the tough Pittsburgh Steelers Sunday.

The Philadelphia Eagles are the only team which has a chance to catch the Browns. The Eagles can tie the Browns by beating the Washington Redskins while the Giants upset Cleveland.

In the event both races wind up deadlocked the Eagles and Browns will meet in Philadelphia next Sunday and the Rams and Lions in Detroit. Should both races be decided, the championship playoff will be staged at Cleveland Dec. 21.

Baugh, a Washington landmark, will make his final appearance for the Redskins in the game against the Eagles at Washington. Albert hangs up his cleats at San Francisco where his 49ers entertain the Green Bay Packers. In the only other game, the Bears and Cardinals tangle in Chicago.

Former Hockey Star Dies At 47

DETROIT (AP)—Requiem high mass will be sung Monday at St. Mary of Redford Catholic church for Larry Aurie, the little man—big star of hockey in the 1920s and 30s. Burial will be in Holy Sepulchre cemetery here.

The 47-year-old Aurie died yesterday following a stroke. A native of Sudbury, Ont., Aurie played with Detroit's original professional hockey team in 1927 and was a member of its Stanley Cup champions of 1936 and 1937. Then he quit to become a coach at Pittsburgh.

At the time of his death he was an insurance salesman for the Automobile Club of Michigan. Only three seasons ago, however, he coached the Oshawa (Ont.) Generals and helped develop Alex Delvecchio and Lou Jankowski, now Detroit Red Wing regulars.

Lehman of Dodgers Really Gets Around

HAVANA (NEA)—Kenny Lehman is a young man who certainly gets around.

Lehman spent last Spring in the front lines in Korea. During the summer the southpaw pitched for Fort Lewis in the Tacoma City League. Discharged from the Army in August, he joined St. Paul. He was called by Brooklyn, returned to Bellevue, Wash., to visit his parents, and now is hurrying for the Sienfuegos in the Cuban Winter League.

The University of Florida grid team intercepted 13 of 87 opposing passes in their first four games. Defensive halfback Tommy Ives led the way with four interceptions.

WANT A RIDE?—In northern Italy, where everyone rides a bicycle, anyone walking draws a crowd. Curious cyclists followed Claude J. Albert as he heeled-and-toed to victory in a 100-

Michigan At Iowa In Big Ten Cage Opener

CHICAGO (AP)—Iowa's Hawk-eyes, runnerup to Illinois in last season's Big Ten basketball race, awaited a Michigan invasion to-night in the earliest conference opener in history.

The game at Iowa City is the first league encounter of the season. Other conference teams don't play their first Big Ten games until next week.

The Big Ten cage schedule starts earlier this year to accommodate the expanded 18-game conference program in which each team plays every other league school twice.

New Offense

Michigan is undefeated in non-league games with Marquette and Pittsburgh and has displayed a drastically redesigned offense under new coach Bill Perigo. A fast-break type attack, replacing the former more deliberate Wolverine game, already has produced a new school scoring record—85 points to Pittsburgh's 72.

Guard Don Eaddy and center Paul Grotfisky pace the veteran Wolverine quintet. They've scored 33 and 31 points, respectively, in the two Michigan victories.

Won and Lost

Iowa beat Butler in the Hawk opener 62-52, then dropped a 63-62 decision to Oklahoma. Forward Deacon Davis accounted for 37 Iowa points in the two games.

In other major Midwest games involving Big Ten teams and top independents tonight, Iowa State plays at Bradley, Indiana at Kansas State, Ohio State at Butler, Wabash at Purdue, Nebraska at Minnesota, Notre Dame at Marquette.

Italians Win In Davis Cup Play

BRISBANE, Australia (AP)—Italy's Davis Cup tennis team staggered through to victory over a sorely handicapped Indian team today, but showed nothing to indicate it might give the United States a hard time in the inter-zone final at Sydney next week end.

It appears doubtful, in fact, that either of the Italian singles players, Fausto Gardini or Roberto Del Bello, can give Tony Trabert the sort of tightening competition the young American sailor needs before meeting the Australians in the challenge round at Adelaide, Dec. 29, 30, 31.

Gardini gave his team victory by defeating tall Sumant Misra, of India, 6-6, 8-6, 1-6, 6-4, in the first of today's concluding singles matches. Then, with all pressure off, little Naresh Kumar of India wound up the series by spanking Rolando Del Bello 6-2, 8-6, 4-6, 6-3.

That made the final count 3-2 in Italy's favor and represented a surprisingly strong stand by two Indian players who were virtually unknown to Western tennis fans until they came here.

Superior Cagers Top Tech 98-82

SUPERIOR, Wis. (AP)—Michigan Tech dropped a 98-82 basketball decision here last night to a high scoring Superior State Cage quintet.

Forward Derrick Walker paced Superior with 32 points on 10 field goals and 12 free throws.

Tech's guard Gary Lundin was high scorer for the night with 34 points on 14 field goals and 6 free throws.

Superior, dominating the backboards, led all the way in the high scoring game, amassing a 44-24 halftime edge.

Unbeaten Native Dancer earned $230,495 in winning all nine races during 1952.

Lay Plans For Hockey Season

Hockey plans for the impending season were discussed at a well-attended, enthusiastic meeting Thursday night at the City Hall.

It is proposed to have a city team, the Gladstone Indians, as in years past and a junior team to represent Gladstone in out of town competition. This team will be named the Falcons.

It is also planned to have a junior hockey league here as there are a large number of junior players and others who wish to learn.

A five man board was selected to handle the Gladstone Hockey club. On the board are John Van-Brocklin, Jim Rose, Neil Sinclair, Walter Lake and Gordon Haga.

The purpose of the board is to act as a head for all hockey interests, senior and junior, in the city creating closer cooperation between all teams.

The board will meet early next week to make further plans. An effort is to be made to get sponsors for the two teams which will represent Gladstone in out-of-town games this season.

Practice sessions will start as soon as the rink is made available by the city.

Can't Stand Killings; British Composer, 46, Quits Communism

LONDON (AP)—British composer and conductor Benjamin Frankel announced last night he had quit the Communist party after 12 years as a cardholding member because of "revulsion" against the recent Prague purge trials and executions.

In a public letter of resignation addressed to London's Communist newspaper, the Daily Worker, Frankel said: "The taking, in this idle way, of human life . . . is too strong to be stomachached." The Worker did not print the letter.

Frankel, 46, wrote and arranged some of the score for the British movie hit, "The Seventh Veil."

Ex-President Hoover Gets Place Of Honor At Jan. 20 Inaugural

WASHINGTON (AP)—Herbert Hoover will be sent a special invitation to a place of honor at the inauguration of President-elect Eisenhower Jan. 20.

The plan thus to pay homage to the late Republican to live in the White House and the nation's only living former president was announced at a news conference yesterday by Sen. Bridges (R-NH). Bridges, chairman of a legislators' arrangements committee, said also that Vice President-elect Nixon will be sworn in at the same outdoor ceremony.

Price Of Homes Not Coming Down Soon

WASHINGTON (AP)—The price of homes isn't coming down any time soon, the National Association of Real Estate Boards predicted today.

The association's report is based on a survey of real estate boards in 245 communities, it announced. Ninety one per cent of the boards taking part in the survey predicted stable or even higher prices for new homes during the next six months; only 9 per cent forecast prices would drop.

About 50 per cent expected prices of existing homes to remain stable, 10 per cent predicted higher prices, the association said.

Hybrid Plane Takes Off Like Helicopter

By VERN HAUGLAND
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Aircraft which take off and land like helicopters but fly like airplanes are practical and ready for development, leaders in a new field of aviation said today.

Speakers at a "convertible aircraft congress" disclosed here that the hybrid "convertiplane" can make flying cheaper, faster—and much safer.

One of them, Dr. J. A. J. Bennett, an engineer with Hiller Helicopter Corp. of Palo Alto, Calif., also proposed the use of short-haul jet-powered helicopters as aerial tugs.

Flies Both Ways
Bennett said helicopters, already able to carry a load well in excess of their own weight, can be used to pick up airplanes from rooftops or ship decks and launch them, or to catch them as they come in and lower them to tiny landing areas, much as harbor tug-boats bring huge liners into port or lead them out again to sea.

And Gerard P. Herrick, president of Convertiplane Corp. of New York City and builder 20 years ago of the first aircraft to "fly both ways"—like a helicopter and like an airplane—said the true convertiplane "will soon be a reality."

"We know from our own data and experience that with a little encouragement we could in a few months provide the prototype of a new kind of all-weather means of transportation and new weapon for the armed services for conditions not yet by available aircraft," Herrick said in a prepared address.

Profitable For Future
"Later an important safe civilian ship will follow which, through mass production, will get the public into the air and result in a stable and highly profitable peace-time industry."

Bennett said, in a prepared paper on the helicopter tug, that whether the airplane is slung beneath the helicopter or is rigidly attached, the resulting composite combination has the advantages of a convertible aircraft without the disadvantages attached with permanent attachment.

He said the helicopter and airplane would be detached at a forward speed within the speed range of each. They could be re-attached, for landing, by techniques comparable to those of refueling airplanes from tankers in flight, he added.

"Large aircraft carriers at sea are thus rendered obsolete and it becomes feasible for fixed wing aircraft to operate from merchant ships for anti-submarine protection," Bennett said.

Jets In Tips
Louis de Monge de Franeau, a French viscount now associated with Flettner Aircraft Corp. of Kew Gardens, N. Y., described a convertiplane design with wings which rotate to provide helicopter take-offs and landings, then lock into wing position for airplane flight.

The roto-wing is driven by jet engines in its tips, he said. These same jets would provide forward motion, although for higher propelling thrust in airplane flight the craft could switch to jet exhaust nozzle in the center of the wings, over the plane's nose.

The Frenchman, recognized some years ago as the inventor of a "flying wing" airplane, said the craft would have the same weight and carry the same payload as a conventional helicopter, yet in airplane flight would have three times the speed of a helicopter.

Thus, he estimated, it could operate at a cost between two and three cents a passenger mile. Helicopter manufacturer Frank Piasecki recently estimated current helicopter transportation costs at between 6.8 and 8.8 cents a passenger mile.

Parliament Member Grips About Salary And Long Work Hours
LONDON (AP)—Listen to this Briton's gripes and try to guess what his job is.

"I work over 100 hours a week and after expenses have been deducted my salary works out at about two shillings (28 cents) an hour."

"Laborers and charwomen (cleaning women) are better treated."

Some people who hold the same job as myself "are so poor they have had to give up smoking."

"We are whipped and dragged" and "tied to our job day after day."

"I often go from Monday morning to Friday without even seeing my two children."

"We have no time for business, family, sport, gardens, hobbies or anything else."

Any idea what kind of a job this pitiable guy holds? Well, he's a member of Britain's House of Commons. The remarks were made last night by Conservative MP Henry Price in a speech at Yeovil, England.

Welfare Costs During October Were $76,243

Welfare costs in Delta during October totaled $76,243.64 for 1,346 recipients. The figure is $4,000 less than the cost in October, 1951, and over $2,000 higher than September costs this year.

The caseload in October was less by 12 than in September. There were five fewer cases of medical supplement for direct relief recipients and seven fewer cases financed by state and federal funds.

Direct relief and county hospitalization costs increased since September and there was a reduction in expenditures for old age assistance, aid to dependent children and administrative costs.

Payments to old age assistance recipients were $1,500 less than in October, 1951. There were 23 fewer recipients of old age assistance during October than a year ago.

The October report, as released by A. M. Gilbert, director of the Delta County Social Welfare department, is as follows:

County Hospitalization .....		3,847.01		742.86
Administrative .....		1,661.73		1,845.10
Direct Relief .....	299	12,010.90	328	11,602.05
*Medical Supplement .....	133		149
Direct Relief .....	166		179

Old Age assistance, aid to dependent children, aid to blind and aid to disabled are financed by state and federal funds. Direct relief is financed by state and county funds.

County welfare and administrative are financed wholly by county funds.

Medical supplement cases are old age assistance, aid to dependent children, aid to blind, and aid to disabled that are given medical care only for acute illness. No provision for this item is made in state and federal grants.

President-Elect Irked By Truman Demagogue Charge

them left Hawaii to return to the mainland.

One of his advisers said, "This meeting was the most important of the whole trip. It was brief—but very, very important in setting the course of the new administration."

Meets Mac Arthur
It is understood there were no pin-point decisions made but that the group "did a lot of business" in establishing overall agreements in which Korea was a part.

Since that meeting, Eisenhower has spent most of his time playing golf, resting and trying to shake a cold.

He is expected to return to his Commodore Hotel headquarters in New York Monday to continue his work there—and there is a likelihood he will meet with Gen. Douglas MacArthur some time next week to hear MacArthur's views on Korea.

MacArthur recently implied he had a plan for peace in Korea. President Truman has said that if he has MacArthur present it to him and not wait.

One source reported there already has been "some strain at the high level" between Eisenhower's liaison men—Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge (R-Mass) and Joseph M. Dodge — and Truman's Cabinet members.

He said there had been no friction below the Cabinet level and added he did not think what friction there was would create any problem in the orderly transfer of government from Democratic to Republican control.

Packer Pays Fine
LANSING (AP)—Gross unsanitary conditions in his packing plant netted a $100 fine, a day in jail and six months probation for the owner of a Memphis packing plant, the State Agriculture Department said today. Miles A. Nelson, head of the department's bureau of marketing and enforcement, said the stiff penalty was assessed on Herman L. Razinick, owner of the LaSalle Food Products Co.

Dinner May Give Clue On Senate Leader For GOP

since Taft blasted President-elect Eisenhower's choice of Martin P. Durkin to be secretary of labor.

Some Republican senators have said they feared Taft's blistering statement might cause a party split — something they want to avoid at all costs. They look to Bridges as the best compromise choice for leader.

However, none has professed to know exactly what position Taft actually wants in the Republican controlled Senate.

The Ohioan now holds the important post of chairman of his party's Senate Policy Committee. He has said he was available for leader in the new session but was not seeking it.

Not Out of Picture
Bridges has served longer in the Senate than any other Republican. By custom this would entitle him to the largely honorary post of president pro tem, the Senate's presiding officer in the absence of the vice president. He also can have the chairmanship of the appropriations or the armed services committees by seniority.

Bridges said after the Nov. 4 election he would rather be president pro tem and appropriations chairman.

But he said yesterday he was not taking himself out of the leadership picture and would accept that job if a majority of his colleagues wanted him to do so to avert a party row.

He also made clear he had decided definitely to become head of the powerful appropriations committee regardless of the leadership outcome. He said the GOP now has a real chance to effect economy and that he was not going to miss the opportunity to help from the vantage point of the appropriations chairmanship.
